Translator's Introduction

In the Name of Allāh, the Beneficent, the Merciful. And may the praise of Allāh in the highest assembly of the angels and safety and security be upon His Servant and Messenger Muḥammad (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam).

Indeed, dealing with sickness - of ourselves or others - the approach of death and death itself is from among the most important affairs that every one of us must give attention to. No human being will be free from at least one or more of these affairs. Even if it was decreed by Allāh that a human being neither became sick, nor experienced someone dear to him becoming sick - then, at least, every one of us must experience death.

Allāh, the Most High, declares emphatically:

(كُلُّ نَفْسٍ ذَائِقَةُ الْمَوْتِ وَإِنَّمَا تُوَفَّوْنَ أَجُورَكُمْ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ فَمَنْ زُحْزِحَ عَنِ النَّارِ وَأُدْخِلَ الْجَنَّةَ فَقَدْ فَازَ وَمَا الْحَيَاةُ الدُّنْيَا إِلَّا لَمَتَعُ الْعَالَمِينَ ﴿١٨٥﴾)

'Everyone shall taste death. And only on the Day of Resurrection shall you be paid your wages in full. And whoever is removed away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise, he indeed is successful. The life of this world is only the enjoyment of deception (a deceiving thing).' [Qur'ān, 3:185]

Hence, the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) reminded us of the necessity to prepare for death.

On the authority of al-Barā', (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-hu) who said: 'We were with the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) on the occasion of a funeral. So, he sat at the edge of the grave and shed tears until the soil (of the ground) become moistened. Then, he said: O my brothers! Prepare yourselves for the likes of this (i.e. the inevitable death).' [Ṣaḥeeḥ Ibn Mājah, no. 3402/4270. Imām al-Albānee (Raḥimahullāh) said that it is Ḥasan (good, acceptable). See: as-Ṣaḥeeḥah, no. 1751]

Please consider the following points:

The Bounties for Which Gratitude is not Shown

The Prophet (ﷺ) said, “There are two bounties which most people lose out on: good health and spare time.” [Ṣaḥeeḥ Al-Bukhāree]

Health is one of the greatest bounties that Allāh has bestowed on us. Yet, most people do not recognize and/or appreciate it except for those who fall ill.

Similarly, how many blessing have we neglected and how many blessings have we fallen short in regard to the obligation of being grateful for them? The greatest of these blessings and the most magnificent of them being the blessing of true Emān and right guidance.

Beware of Having Bad Thoughts About Allāh

Beware of having bad thoughts about Allāh, and becoming angry and impatient due to sickness or the death of a loved one. The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, “Verily, Allāh the Mighty and Majestic says, ‘I am as my servant thinks of Me. If he thinks good of Me, then he will have good. If he thinks evil of Me, then that is what he will get.’” [Ṣaḥeeḥ Ibn Hibbān, See: As-Ṣaḥeeḥah, no. 1663]

Being Tested Is the Sign of Allāh's Love

It has been narrated from Anas bin Mālīk (RāḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu) that the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, “Verily, the greatness of the reward is in accordance with the greatness of the test. Verily, if Allāh loves a people He tests them. So whoever is pleased (with what He has decreed), then he will have (His) good pleasure (as his reward), and whoever is displeased (with what He has decreed), then he will have (His) displeasure (as his reward).” [At-Tirmidhee]

Being Tested is the Path to Paradise

(وَلَنبَلُوَكُمْ بِشَيْءٍ مِّنَ الْخَوْفِ وَالْجُوعِ وَنَقْصٍ مِّنَ الْأَمْوَالِ وَالْأَنْفُسِ وَالشَّمْرَاتِ وَبَشِيرِ الصَّابِرِينَ)
(١٥٥) الَّذِينَ إِذَا أَصَابَتْهُمُ مُصِيبَةٌ قَالُوا إِنَّا لِلَّهِ وَإِنَّا إِلَيْهِ رَاجِعُونَ ﴿١٥٦﴾ أُولَئِكَ عَلَيْهِمْ صَلَوَاتٌ مِّن رَّبِّهِمْ
وَرَحْمَةٌ وَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْمُهْتَدُونَ ﴿١٥٧﴾)

“And certainly, We shall test you with something of fear, hunger, loss of wealth, lives and fruits, but give glad tidings to those who are patient. Who, when afflicted with calamity, say: ‘Truly, to Allāh we belong, and truly, to Him we shall return.’ They are those on whom are the Salawāt (i.e. who are blessed and will be forgiven) from their Lord, and (they are those who) receive His Mercy, and it is they who are the guided ones.” [Qur’ān, 2:155-157]

It has been narrated from Ibn Mas’ood (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu) that the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said, “There is no Muslim who is afflicted by some harm, whether it is sickness or other than it, except that Allāh causes some of his sins to fall away because of it, just like the leaves of a tree fall.” [Saḥeḥ Muslim]

Ease Will Definitely Come After Difficulty

This is the Sunnah (Way) of Allāh with His creation. He has not made any difficulty except that He has given ease after it. Allāh says,

(فَإِنَّ مَعَ الْعُسْرِ يُسْرًا ﴿٥﴾ إِنَّ مَعَ الْعُسْرِ يُسْرًا ﴿٦﴾)

“So verily, with hardship comes relief, verily with hardship comes relief.” (Qur’ān, 94:5-6)

The Continued Reward

Abu Musā Al-Ash’aree (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu) narrated that the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said, “If the servant (of Allāh) becomes ill or travels, Allāh the Most High writes for him the same reward for what he used to do when he was healthy and at home (i.e. not traveling).” [Saḥeḥ Al-Bukhāree]

For Every Illness There is a Cure

It is narrated from Abu Hurairah (RadiyAllāhu ‘an-hu) that the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said, “Allāh has not sent down any disease, except that He also sent down its cure.” [al-Bukhāree and Muslim]

However, the cure – by the permission of Allāh – must be accompanied by certain matters:

From them is that the person must have trust in Allāh, seek refuge in Him, and have good thinking/expectation concerning Him. Prophet Ibrāheem (Alaihis-Salām) declared with strong conviction,

(وَإِذَا مَرِضْتُ فَهُوَ يَشْفِينِ)

“And when I am sick He (Allāh) cures me.” (Qur’ān, 26:80)

From those matters that should accompany the cure is the person’s use of prayers (ar-Ruqyah)¹ that have been sanctioned in the Qur’ān and the Sunnah. Allāh says:

(وَنُنزِّلُ مِنَ الْقُرْآنِ مَا هُوَ شِفَاءٌ وَرَحْمَةٌ لِّلْمُؤْمِنِينَ)

“And We send down from the Qur’ān that which is a cure and a mercy for the believers.” (Qur’ān, 17:82)

Therefore, one must strive to use supplications for oneself from the Qur’ān and that which has been reported in the Prophet’s (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) Sunnah. This is of the most beneficial means of removing illness and suffering.

Examples of this are the recitation of Soorah Al-Fātiḥah, Soorah Al-Baqarah, Soorah Al-Ikhlās, Soorah Al-Falaq, Soorah An-Nās and other Soorahs of the Qur’ān, as all of the Qur’ān is a healing and a mercy.

It is also narrated from ‘Ā’ishah (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hā) that the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) used to visit some of his family who were ill and he would wipe his right hand on them while saying, “Oh Allāh! Lord of the people! Remove the affliction and grant healing. For You are the One Who cures and there is no cure except for Your cure. It is a cure that leaves behind no sickness.” [al-Bukhāree and Muslim]

However, these supplications and prayers require a humble heart, true humility and sincere conviction.

You should also seek help through ritual prayer (As-Salāh). Allāh says:

(وَأَسْتَعِينُوا بِالصَّبْرِ وَالصَّلَاةِ وَإِنَّهَا لَكَبِيرَةٌ إِلَّا عَلَى الْخَاشِعِينَ)

“And seek help (from Allāh) with patience and prayer (As-Salāh)...”

[Qur’ān, 2:45]

You should also give more charity. It is narrated from Abu Umāmah (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu) that the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said, “Treat your sick by giving charity.” [Ṣaḥeeḥ Al-Jāmi‘ of Al-Albānee, no. 3358]

You should only treat your illness with those things that have been reported (in the Qur’ān and Sunnah) to contain cures. Examples of this are honey, black seed, ZamZam water and cupping (blood-letting).

You should treat your illness with that which Allāh has permitted of the lawful medicines, since seeking cure in medicines that are forbidden has been prohibited.

The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said, “Verily Allāh has sent down sickness and cure, and He has made a cure for every sickness. Therefore, treat your sicknesses, but do not treat your sicknesses with that which is forbidden.” (Abu Dāwood)

The Explanation

It is our sincere hope that the contents of this book will help and encourage a believer to become more conscious of - and more attentive to - his or her behavior while visiting the sick and dying, performing the Janāzah prayers and visiting the graves.

This small guide to etiquettes and supplications related to sickness and death is taken from 'Fiqh al-Ad'iyah wal-Adhkār' (Understanding the Words of Supplication and Remembrance)² by Shaykh Abdur-Razzāq ibn Abdul-Muḥsin al-Badr (may Allāh protect and preserve him and his father).

Memorization

The Arabic text, followed by its transliteration, has been included to facilitate the memorization of each of the supplications contained in this book. It is hoped that whoever recites these supplications, with reflection and contemplation upon their meanings, and belief in their truthfulness in

What Is To Be Said To The Sick Person

Indeed, Islām has come with the encouragement of paying attention to the rights of the sick, as well as the regular visiting of the sick, supplicating that he be cured and granted well-being, along with clarification of the types of supplications that are best to be recited at the time of visiting the sick.

All of this care and attention, commitment and supplicating springs from the fact that the condition of the true believers is as though they are one soul [i.e. as though they are all members of one body, sharing hopes and pains]. Hence, that which brings joy to one of them, brings joy to them all. And what causes pain to one of them, causes pain to them all.

In the two Ṣaḥeeḥs (i.e. Ṣaḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree and Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim), on the authority of an-Nu'mān ibn Basheer (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-humā), who said that the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: "The likeness of the believers in their love for one another, their mercy towards one another and the compassion and sympathy towards one another is like the example of one body [i.e. like they are parts of the same body]. When one member or part of the body experiences pain, the remaining parts of the body share in that pain, through sleeplessness and fever."³

In a narration in Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim, it has: "The Muslims are like one man, if/when his eye is in pain, his whole being is in pain; and if/when his head is in pain, his whole being is in pain."⁴

For this reason, visiting the sick has been legislated (in Islām), for the comfort and consolation of the sick and to ease the (difficulty of the) affair upon them. And this has been made one of their rights.

In Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim, on the authority of Abu Hurairah (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-hu), that the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: "The rights of a Muslim upon a Muslim are six: When you meet him, greet him [saying: 'As-Salamu

³ Ṣaḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree, no. 6011, and Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim, no. 2586.

⁴ Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim, no. 2586.

Alaikum]; when he makes an invitation to you, accept it; when he asks you for sincere advice, give him sincere advice; when he sneezes and then praises Allāh, supplicate for him that Allāh have mercy upon him; and when he falls ill, visit him; and when he dies, follow his funeral procession.⁵

Many textual evidences have come to us clarifying the virtue and excellence of visiting the sick, as well as the magnificence of its reward with Allāh.

Imām Muslim has recorded in his Saḥeeḥ (authentic collection of Hadeeth), on the authority of Thawbān (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu), the freed-slave of the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam), who said: the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: "The one who visits the sick person will be in gardens of paradise, until he returns (from the visit)."⁶

In another narration, the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam), said: "Whoever visits a sick person will remain in the Khurṣab of paradise." It was said: O Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam)! What is the Khurṣab of paradise? He (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: "Its fruits."⁷

This means that the one who visits the sick will be in the gardens of paradise, taking from it whatever he wills, and harvesting from it whatever he desires.

At-Tirmidhee has reported from Abu Hurairah (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu) that he said: The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: "Whoever visits a sick person or visits a brother of his for the sake of Allāh, will have a caller call out to him (saying): (May Allāh) cause you to be good and make your efforts good, and grant you a high station in paradise."⁸ And the Aḥadeeth (narrations) concerning this matter are plentiful.

It is commendable for a Muslim when visiting a sick person to put him at ease, make him feel like his situation is not so bad, remind him of the reward of Allāh and that the sickness is a means of expiation of sins for him as well as a purification.

In Ṣaḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbās (RāḍiyAllāhu 'an-humā): who said: the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) entered upon a bedouin to visit him due to his sickness. The narrator said: Whenever the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) entered upon a sick person to visit him, he would say:

لَا بَأْسَ طَهُورٌ إِنْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ

Lā Ba's(a), Ṭahoor(un), In Shā Allāh.

'[This sickness is] not harmful. Rather, it is a means of purification, if Allāh Wills.'

The sick bedouin responded saying: You said that it is a means of purification! No way! Rather, it is a fever boiling up inside an old man, causing him to visit the graves (i.e. causing his death). The Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: "Then, yes (it is as you say)."⁹

The saying of the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam): '... it is a means of purification, if Allāh Wills... - means: It is a means of purification for you from your sins, i.e. that which purifies you from (the evil effects or consequences of) your sins.¹⁰

In the Sunan of al-Imām Abu Dāwood, on the authority of Umm al-'Alā (RāḍiyAllāhu 'an-hā), who said: The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) visited me while I was ill. So, he said: 'Accept the good tidings, O Umm al-'Alā! Indeed, the sickness experienced by a Muslim is the means by which Allāh removes one's sins, in the same way that fire removes impurities from gold and silver.¹¹

⁹ Ṣaḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree, no. 5656.

¹¹ Sunan Abu Dāwood, no. 2688. Al-Albānee (Raḥimullāh) declared it to be Ṣaḥeeḥ (authentic) in: 'Ṣaḥeeḥ at-Tarḡeeb', no. 3438.

In the Saḥeeḥ of Muslim, on the authority of Jābir ibn Abdullāh (RadiyAllāhu ‘an-humā), who said that the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) entered upon Umm as-Sā’ib or Umm al-Musayyib (RadiyAllāhu ‘an-hā) and said: 'What has befallen you, O Umm as-Sā’ib or Umm al-Musayyib, causing you to tremble or shiver?' She said: (It is from) fever. May Allāh not bless it! He (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'Do not curse the fever. Indeed, it removes the sins of the children of Ādam, just as the bellows (of the blacksmith) removes the impurities of iron.'¹²

Al-Bukhāree has reported in 'al-Adab al-Mufrad', on the authority of Sa'eed ibn Wahab, who said: I was with Salmān (RadiyAllāhu ‘an-hu), while visiting a sick person in Kindab. So, when he entered upon (the sick person), he (Salmān) said: "Accept the good tidings, for indeed the sickness experienced by a believer is made by Allāh to be a Kaffārah (a means of expiation of his sins) as well as a Musta'tiban (cause of reflection upon one's errors and mistakes). [On the other hand], the sickness experienced by the corrupt, sinful person is like the camel whose feet have been tied down by its owner and then let loose, while it does not know why it has been tied down or why it has been set free?"¹³

So, he (Salmān) gave him the glad tidings and reminded him that the calamities which befall the believer in his body are all means of expiation for his sins. This is like that which is in the two Saḥeeḥs (i.e. Saḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree and Saḥeeḥ Muslim), on the authority of Abu Hurairah (RadiyAllāhu ‘an-hu), from the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) who said: 'The Muslim is not afflicted with fatigue (naṣab), nor sickness (waṣab), nor worry (ḥamm), nor grief (ḥuzn), nor any kind of hurt or harm (adḥā), nor severe distress (ghamm), not even the prick of a thorn - except that Allāh will expiate his sins due to it (i.e. any of the above mentioned matters).'¹⁴

As for the statement of Salmān (RadiyAllāhu ‘an-hu): '*..and a Musta'tiban...' means that - in his sickness - it will be made possible for him to be reminded of his sins, and come to know his mistakes and shortcomings to an extent that would not be made possible for him during his state of good health and well-being.

At this point, his sickness will be a cause of reprimanding himself for his shortcomings and pushing him to retreat from his wrongdoings and seeking the good pleasure (of Allāh). This is relative to the believer.

As for the corrupt sinful person, his affair - when he becomes sick - is like the affair of the camel whose feet has been tied up with a rope by its owner and then let loose. So, he does not know why he has been tied down or why he has been set free. Hence, he continues in his sin and error, going to the extremes in his sin and corruption, without there being any lesson for him in his sickness, nor does his sickness become a cause of admonishment for him.

And it is incumbent upon the one who intends to visit a sick person that he chooses the appropriate or suitable time for his visit. The reason for this is because the objective of the visit is to bring comfort to the sick person and soothe his heart - not to make difficulty for him.

For this same reason, it is upon the visitor to avoid lengthening the duration of his stay and sitting with the patient, unless the patient himself desires him to stay and there is a benefit in his sitting (for a long time), and that it be in the interest of the patient to do so.

It is from the Sunnah that the visitor sits at the head of the sick person. It is recorded in 'al-Adab al-Mufrad' by al-Bukhāree (Raḥimahullāh), on the authority of Ibn 'Abbās (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-humā), that he said: Whenever the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) would visit a sick person, he would sit at his head. Then, he would say seven times:

أَسْأَلُ اللَّهَ الْعَظِيمَ، رَبَّ الْعَرْشِ الْعَظِيمِ، أَنْ يَشْفِيكَ

As-'a-lul-lāhal-'Adheem(a), Rabbal-'Ar-shil-'A-dheem(i), an –yash-fi-yak(a).

I ask Allāh, the Supreme, Lord of the Magnificent Throne, to make you well. (To be recited seven times)

So, if his appointed term (of life) is going to be delayed, he will be cured from his sickness.¹⁵

From the Sunnah is that the visitor places his hand upon the body of the patient at the time when he intends to supplicate for him.

In the two Saḥeeḥs (i.e. Saḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree and Saḥeeḥ Muslim), it is recorded that when the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) visited Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqāṣ (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-humā), he placed his hand on his forehead, then wiped his hand over his face and his stomach. Then, the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said:

اللَّهُمَّ اشْفِ سَعْدًا

Allāhum-ma-sh-fi Sa'd(an)

O Allāh! Cure Sa'd.¹⁶

In placing the hand upon the sick person is a means of putting him at ease, a means of coming to know the severity of his sickness or mildness of it, and gentleness towards him.

Additionally, it is incumbent upon the visitor to advise the sick person that he supplicate (for himself), and that he (i.e. the visitor) not say in the presence of the sick person anything except that which is good.

In the Saḥeeḥ of Muslim, on the authority of Umm Salamah (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-hā), that she said: The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'If you are in the presence of the sick or deceased, then you must say that which is good (khair), for indeed the angels say Āmeen to whatever you say (i.e. they ask that your supplication be accepted).¹⁷

Likewise, it is incumbent upon the visitor to select the supplication which is most comprehensive, and to eagerly seek out those supplications which have been transmitted from the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam),

They, then, requested them (the Arab tribe) to take them in as their guests, but they (the Arab tribe) refused to host them. Then, the chief of that tribe was bitten by a snake (or stung by a scorpion) and they (his people) made every effort (to cure him), but nothing benefited him. Some of them said, "If only you went to that group (of travelers) who have dismounted near you [i.e. to ask them for help], and perhaps one of them has something useful (as a cure for his sickness)?" They came to them and said, "O People! Our leader has been bitten by a snake (or stung by a scorpion) and we have made every effort (to cure him), but nothing benefited him. Does anyone of you have anything useful (as a cure for his sickness)?" One of them replied, "Yes, by Allah, I know how to treat with a ruqyah. But, by Allāh, we requested you to take us in as guests, but you refused to host us. Hence, I will not treat your patient with a ruqyah unless and until you appoint for us something as payment (for treating him)." As a result they agreed to give the travelers a flock of sheep. The man went with them (i.e. the people of the tribe) and started spitting (on the bite) and reciting: 'al-Ḥamdu lillāhi Rabbil-'Ālameen...' [i.e. the 'Opening' chapter of the Qur'ān (al-Fātiḥah)] until he (i.e. the sick leader) got up quickly and started walking as if he had not been sick. Then, the people (of the tribe) paid them that which they had agreed upon, and some of them (the Prophet's companions) said, "Let us distribute (the sheep)." But the one who treated with the ruqyah said, "Do not do that until we go to the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) and mention to him what has happened, and see what he will order us to do." So they came to the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa

One might also perform ruqyah by reciting:

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ أَزْقِيكَ، مِنْ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ يُؤْذِيكَ، مِنْ شَرِّ كُلِّ نَفْسٍ أَوْ عَيْنٍ حَاسِدٍ،

Alternatively, one might say that which is confirmed in the two Saḥeehs (i.e. Saḥeeh al-Bukhāree and Saḥeeh Muslim), on the authority of 'Ā'ishah (RadiyAllāhu 'an-hā), that the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) used to say to the sick person:

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ، تُرْبَةُ أَرْضِنَا، بِرِيقَةٍ بَعْضِنَا، يُشْفَى سَقِيمُنَا، بِإِذْنِ رَبِّنَا

²⁴ On the authority of 'Ā'ishah (RadiyAllāhu 'an-hā), that whenever the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) was sick he would recite over himself the three chapters of the Qur'ān known as al-Mu'awwidhāt, and blow (over his palms). So, when his pain became severe, I [i.e. 'Ā'ishah (RadiyAllāhu 'an-hā)], used to recite these chapters over him and wipe (over him) with his own hands, hoping for the blessings of his hands (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam). Saḥeeh al-Bukhāree, no. 5016, and Saḥeeh Muslim, no. 2192.

What Is To Be Said In The Presence Of A Dying Person

Discussion has preceded concerning a number of the etiquettes connected to visiting the sick and the supplications which are commendable to be said at the time of visiting a sick person.

The discussion here will concern what should be done and said in the presence of one who is approaching death, as well as what should be said by the one who is near death.

The most important thing here is supplicating for the dying person, and that one does not say anything in his presence except that which is good (khair).

In the Saḥeeh of Muslim, on the authority of Umm Salamah (RāḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hā), she said: The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'If you visit a sick person or a dying person, then say to him that which is good (khair), for indeed the angels say 'Āmeen' to what you (all) are saying (i.e. the angels ask that your supplications be answered by Allāh).'²⁷

Likewise, one must be eager in encouraging/instructing the dying person to recite the statement of Tawḥeed, i.e. 'Lā ilāha illAllāh (there is nothing worthy of worship except Allāh), so that these will be his final words in this worldly life.'²⁸

On the authority of Abu Sa'eed al-Khudree (RāḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu), who said: The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'Encourage/Instruct your dying to recite: 'Lā ilāha illAllāh (there is nothing worthy of worship except Allāh).' [Reported by Muslim]²⁹

²⁷ Saḥeeh Muslim, no. 919.

²⁸ See: Appendix II, page 73.

²⁹ Saḥeeh Muslim, no. 916

The intended meaning of the Prophet's (ﷺ) statement: 'your dying', is any one of you who is approaching death, not the one who has actually died.

And on the authority of Mu'adh ibn Jabal (RadīyAllāhu 'an-hu), who said: The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'Whoever dies with his final words being: Lā ilāha illAllāh (there is nothing worthy of worship except Allāh), will enter paradise (al-Jannah).' [Reported by Abu Dāwood]³⁰

And on the authority of 'Uthmān ibn 'Affān (RadīyAllāhu 'an-hu), who said: The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'Whoever dies while knowing that there is nothing which deserves to be worshipped except Allāh, will enter paradise (al-Jannah).' [Reported by Muslim]³¹

It has been confirmed in the 'Musnad' of Imām Aḥmad, from the Hadeeth of Anas (RadīyAllāhu 'an-hu): That the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) visited a (sick) man from the Anṣār, and said to him: 'O Kbāl (maternal uncle)! Say: 'Lā ilāha illAllāh (there is nothing worthy of worship except Allāh). The man said: Am I a Kbāl (maternal uncle) or 'Āmm (paternal uncle)? So, the Prophet (ﷺ) responded, saying: Rather, you are a Kbāl (maternal uncle). The man then said: So, it will be good for me that I say: 'Lā ilāha illAllāh (there is nothing worthy of worship except Allāh)? Thereupon, the Prophet (ﷺ) said: Yes!³²

And from the interesting things reported concerning this topic, is the story of the Imām, the Muhaddith (scholar of Hadeeth), Abu Zur'ah ar-Rāzee (Raḥimahullāh) just before he died. It is a confirmed story, reported by more than one of the People of Knowledge³³, from Abu 'Abdullāh Muḥammad ibn Muslim al-Bādee, who said:

³⁰ Sunan Abu Dāwood, no. 3116. Al-Albānee (Raḥimahullāh) declared it to be Ṣaḥeeḥ (authentic) in: 'Ṣaḥeeḥ al-Jāmi' aṣ-Ṣagheer', no. 6479.

³¹ Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim, no. 26.

³² Musnad of Aḥmad, 3/154. al-Haithamee, in 'al-Majma', 5/305: 'and its narrators are Rijāl aṣ-Ṣaḥeeḥ, i.e. narrators in the chains of narration of al-Bukhāree or Muslim.

I came with Abu Hātīm Muḥammad ibn Idrees to Abu Zur'ah 'Ubaidullāh ibn Abdul-Kareem ar-Rāzee, while he was in the agony of death (naz'). So, I said to Abu Hātīm: Come (over) so that we can instruct him to say the Shahādah (i.e. 'Lā ilāha illAllāh'). Abu Hātīm said: Indeed, I am too shy in the presence of Abu Zur'ah to instruct him to recite the Shahādah. But, rather you come so that we (together) can review the Hadeeth [saying of the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) related to the matter], in hope that if he hears it (being recited by us) he will say it.

Muḥammad ibn Muslim said: So, I began, and I said: Abu 'Āsim an-Nabeel narrated to us, saying: 'Abdul-Hameed ibn Ja'far narrated to us...then the Hadeeth caused me to tremble, until it was as though I had never heard it or read it.

At this, Abu Hātīm began (i.e. to recite the Hadeeth) saying: Muḥammad ibn Bashshār narrated to us, saying: Abu 'Āsim an-Nabeel narrated to us, from 'Abdul-Hameed ibn Ja'far...and then the Hadeeth caused him to tremble, until it was as though he had never heard it or read it.

At this point, Abu Zur'ah began (to recite the Hadeeth) [while he was in the agony of death (naz')], saying: Muḥammad ibn Bashshār narrated to us, saying: Abu 'Āsim an-Nabeel narrated to us, saying: 'Abdul-Hameed ibn Ja'far narrated to us, from Ṣālih ibn Abee 'Areeb, from Katheer ibn Murrāh, from Mu'ādh ibn Jabal (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-hu), who said: the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: "Whoever dies with his final words in this world being: Lā ilāha illAllāh (there is nothing worthy of worship except Allāh)...At that moment, his soul exited (from his body) with the pronunciation of the letter 'Hā' (h) [i.e. the final letter of the statement: Lā ilāha illAllāh], before he said: 'he will enter paradise (al-Jannah)'.³⁴

³⁴ What is understood here is that instead of Allāh allowing him to recite these final words of the Hadeeth: 'he will enter paradise', He allowed him to actualize it (i.e. to die at the moment and actually enter the paradise), in accordance with the promise of Allāh, upon the tongue of His Messenger (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) in this Hadeeth.

What Is To Be Said By The Dying Person³⁵

From among the magnificent supplications which are becoming of the dying person to supplicate to Allāh with, is asking Him (the One Free From All Imperfections, Most High) for forgiveness (al-Maghfirah) and mercy (ar-Rahmah).

In the two Saheehs (i.e. Saheeh al-Bukhāree and Saheeh Muslim), on the authority of 'Ā'ishah (RadiyAllāhu 'an-hā), who said that she heard the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) just before he died, and she had listened carefully to him, [she said:] while he was leaning his back upon me, he was saying:

اللَّهُمَّ اغْفِرْ لِي وَارْحَمْنِي وَأَلْحِقْنِي بِالرَّفِيقِ الْأَعْلَى

Allāhum-ma-gh-fir lee wa-r-ham-nee wa alhiq-nee bir-Rafeeqi-l-A'lā

'O Allāh! forgive me and have mercy upon me and join me in the company of ar-Rafeeq al-A'lā (the highest companions, i.e. in paradise).³⁶ [see: Qur'aan, 4:69]³⁷

From that which is becoming to remind the dying person of is to have good expectations of his Rabb (Lord and Creator), [e.g. if you have believed in Him and tried to do good, then expect mercy and kindness from Allāh].

On the authority of Jābir ibn Abdullāh (RadiyAllāhu 'an-humā), who said: I heard the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) three days before his death, saying: 'No one of you should die except while he is expecting good from

They are the Prophets, the Truthful, the Martyrs, and the Righteous, and how excellent these companions are! This is what the Messenger (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) was saying at the time of his death..." See: Explanation of 'Riyādh as-Sāliheen', 4/495 Arabic Edition.

Allāh (i.e. in return for believing in Him and doing good deeds).³⁸ [Reported by Muslim]³⁸

It is reported by Ibn Abid-Dunyā in his book 'Husnu-dh-Dhann Bi-llāhi' (Having Good Expectations of Allāh), on the authority of Ibrāheem an-Nakha'ee (Raḥimahullāh), that he said: 'They used to consider it commendable to remind a person of the good things from their deeds at the time of a person's death, so that the person will have good expectations of their Rabb (Lord and Creator), the Mighty the Majestic.'³⁹

Note that no authentic Hadeeth has been confirmed from the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) which points to the legality of reciting anything (at all) from the Noble Qur'ān upon the dying person. As for the Hadeeth: 'Recite Yā-Seen upon your dying' - it is a weak (Da'eef) Hadeeth, which is not confirmed to be from the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam), as it has been pointed out by more than one of the People of Knowledge.⁴⁰

What Is Incumbent Upon The Dying Person To Give Care To And Take Notice Of⁴¹

Additionally, there are some matters which are incumbent upon the dying person to give care to and take notice of. From them is:

One: That it is necessary that he be pleased with Allāh's act of pre-decreeing (all affairs) and to be patient with the decree when it befalls him, so that he may earn the recompense of those who are patient and the reward of those who anticipate, expect and hope for a reward for their good deeds.

In Saḥeeḥ Muslim, it is reported from the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) that he said: 'Amazing is the affair of the believer. Indeed, the whole of his affair is good (khair); and this is not so for anyone except the believer. If happiness/prosperity (sarra'u) comes to him, he is thankful, and hence it is good for him. And if distress/adversity (darra') afflicts him, he is patient, and hence it is good for him.'⁴²

Two: It is incumbent upon him to be careful not to wish for death, even if the sickness becomes severe and the pain is excessive.

This is due to what is reported in the two Saḥeeḥs (i.e. Saḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree and Saḥeeḥ Muslim), from the Hadeeth of Anas (RādiyAllāhu 'an-hu) that the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'No one of you must wish for death, due to some harm that has befallen him. And if one finds it necessary to do so, then he should say:

اللَّهُمَّ أَحْيِنِي مَا كَانَتْ الْحَيَاةُ خَيْرًا لِي، وَتَوَفَّنِي إِذَا كَانَتْ الْوَفَاةُ خَيْرًا لِي

O Allāh! Let me live, if continuing to live is better for me, and take my life if dying is better for me.⁴³

In the Musnad of Imām Aḥmad, it is narrated on the authority of Umm al-Faḍl (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hā), that the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) entered upon them, while 'Abbās (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu) - the uncle of the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) - was suffering from sickness. So, 'Abbās (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu) expressed a wish to die, and the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said to him: 'O Uncle! Do not wish for death, for, indeed, if you are a person who does good deeds - then, if you remain alive longer, you will increase more good to your good (which you have already done) and that will be better for you. And if you were a person who had done evil - then, if you remain alive longer, and turn back from your evil, that would be better for you. So, do not wish for death.'⁴⁴

Three: It is incumbent upon him to combine - for himself - the two qualities of hope (ar-Rajā') and fear (al-Khawf); hoping for the mercy (Raḥmah) of Allāh and fearing His punishment (Iqab) for his sins.

at-Tirmidhee and Ibn Mājah have narrated from Anas (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu): that the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) entered upon a young man while he was dying. The Prophet said to him: 'How do you find yourself?' The young man said: By Allāh! O Messenger of Allāh! Indeed, I am having hope in Allāh and I am fearing my sins. The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'These two (i.e. hope and fear) are not combined in the heart of a person - in the like of this situation (i.e. death), except that Allāh gives the person what he hopes for (of His Mercy) and grants him safety from what he fears (i.e. the punishment for his sins).'⁴⁵

⁴³ Ṣaḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree, no. 3651, and Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim, no. 2680.

⁴⁴ al-Musnad, 6/339. Al-Albānee (Raḥimahullāh) declared it to be Ṣaḥeeḥ (authentic) in 'Ṣaḥeeḥ at-Targheeb wat-Tarheeb', no. 3368.

⁴⁵ Sunan at-Tirmidhee, no. 905 and Sunan Ibn Mājah, no. 4351. Al-Albānee (Raḥimahullāh) declared it to be Ṣaḥeeḥ (authentic) in: 'Ṣaḥeeḥ al-Jāmi' as-Ṣagheer', no. 3383.

Four: It is commendable for him to write his 'Will' (Waṣiyyah).⁴⁶ If he owes others anything, then he must return those things to their rightful owners, if that is at all possible. Otherwise, if it is not possible, then he must write it out in his 'Will' [so that these rights of others will be fulfilled after his death].

The writing of a 'Will' (Waṣiyyah) is an obligation, concerning his wealth and concerning the rights of others that are upon him, so that (these obligations, rights, etc.) will not be lost.

This is indicated in the two Ṣaḥeeḥs (i.e. Ṣaḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree and Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim), from the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) that he said: 'It is not the right of any Muslim person to spend two nights while he has anything that he intends to bequeath (will) to someone, except that his 'Will' is written and placed at his head [i.e. where it can easily be found, if he dies].'⁴⁷

As for his writing of a 'Will' to give something from his wealth to be spent in the various avenues of charity and generosity, in order that the reward for such will reach him after his death - this is something that is highly commendable. The Legislator (Allāh) has allowed one - at the time of death - to bequeath (in a 'Will' to other than one's inheritors) - one third of one's wealth or less.

Five: It is also highly commendable for him to also advise his family (in his written 'Will') to observe Taqwā of Allāh, to preserve His commands, and adhere strictly to the Sunnah of His Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam), as well as to warn them from following desires (al-Aḥwā') and innovations (al-Bida').

Sa'eed ibn Manṣoor - in his 'Sunan' - and others besides him, have narrated from Anas ibn Mālik (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-hu) that he said: 'They (i.e. the Ṣaḥābah) used to write in the main body of the 'Wills': In the Name of Allāh, the Beneficent, the Merciful. This is what the son of so-and-so has advised with: That he bears witness that nothing deserves to be worshiped except Allāh, Alone, without any partners, and that Muḥammad (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) is His worshiper/servant and His Messenger; and that the 'Hour' (of Judgment) is coming, no doubt about it; and that Allāh will resurrect those who are in the graves. And he advises whoever he left behind from his family to observe Taqwā of Allāh, to reconcile the differences between one another, to be obedient to Allāh and His Messenger (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) if they were true believers. And he would advise them with that which Ibrāheem (Alaihis-Salām) advised his sons and likewise Ya'qoob (Alaihis-Salām), namely: 'O my sons! Indeed, Allāh has chosen for you this Deen (al-Islām), so do not die except while being Muslim (i.e. in a state of submission to Allāh, upon Tawḥeed).' [Soorah al-Baqarah, 2:132]⁴⁸

Six: It is incumbent that he advise them to prepare his body for burial and bury him in accordance with the Sunnah, to warn them from innovations (Bida') [in the funeral procedures], especially if he has reason to fear the occurrence of any of this, or if innovations were prevalent in his society.

Indeed, Abu Moosā (RāḍiyAllāhu 'an-hu) - at the time of his death - advised, saying: 'When you go forth with my body, then walk quickly, do not follow me with a *Mijmar*⁴⁹, do not place anything upon the Laḥd [i.e. the niche in the lateral wall of the grave] causing or making something to be between me and the dirt, do not place upon my grave any structure. And I call you to witness that I am free of blame from every *Hāliqah*⁵⁰, *Sāliqah*⁵¹ or *Khāriqah*⁵². They said: Have you heard something about this? He (RāḍiyAllāhu 'an-hu) said: Yes, from the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam). [Reported by Aḥmad]⁵³

We ask Allāh for all of us that we have a good ending (Husna-l-Khitām) and that we die upon true faith (al-Emān), as a result of His Favor and Generosity.

What Is To Be Said In The Prayer For The Deceased

A number of Abhādeeth (i.e. narrations) have come to us in the Sunnah related to what is to be said in the prayer over the deceased (al-Janāzah). Its clarification is found in what follows:

It is confirmed in the Saheeh of Muslim, on the authority of 'Awf ibn Mālik (RadiyAllāhu 'an-hu), who said: The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) performed the prayer over a deceased person, and I memorized - from his supplication - his saying:

اللَّهُمَّ اغْفِرْ لَهُ وَارْحَمْهُ وَعَافِهِ وَاعْفُ عَنْهُ، وَأَكْرِمْ نُزُلَهُ، وَّوَسِّعْ مُدْخَلَهُ، وَاغْسِلْهُ بِالْمَاءِ
وَالثَّلْجِ وَالْبَرَدِ، وَنَقِّهِ مِنَ الْخَطَايَا كَمَا نَقَّيْتَ الثَّوْبَ الْأَبْيَضَ مِنَ الدَّنَسِ، وَأَبْدِلْهُ دَارًا
خَيْرًا مِنْ دَارِهِ، وَأَهْلًا خَيْرًا مِنْ أَهْلِهِ وَزَوْجًا خَيْرًا مِنْ زَوْجِهِ، وَأَدْخِلْهُ الْجَنَّةَ وَأَعِدْهُ مِنْ
عَذَابِ الْقَبْرِ - وَ مِنْ عَذَابِ النَّارِ

'O Allāh! Forgive him, have mercy upon him, grant him well-being, pardon him, grant him an honorable residence and provision, make his place of entry spacious, wash him with water, snow and hail, purify him from his sins just as You have purified the white garment from stains; grant him a home that is better than his home and a family that is better than his family and a spouse that is better than his spouse; and admit him into paradise, and protect him from the punishment of the grave and⁵⁴ from the punishment of the Hell-fire' - until I wished that I were that dead person.⁵⁵

This is a magnificent comprehensive supplication, in which the supplication is purely for the deceased, that he be granted pardon (al-'Afwu) and forgiveness (al-Ghufrān), safety (as-Salāmah) and salvation (an-Najāh), honor (al-Ikrām) and beneficence (al-Iḥsān). And it is to be utilized on this important occasion of praying over the deceased.

And this is an occasion in which it is highly commendable to go to the utmost limits in asking for mercy upon the deceased (at-Tarabḥum) and supplicating on his behalf, since his body has been brought forward to his Muslim brothers for this very purpose of supplicating for him and asking Allāh for forgiveness of his sins, covering of his faults, and freeing him from his mistakes.

This is a supplication which actually benefits the deceased - by the permission of Allāh. And it is from among a number of things which point to [the need for and obligation of] there being mercifulness (at-Tarabḥum) and sympathy and kindness (at-Ta'ātuḥ) among the people of Emān.

The Sunnah - as it relates to this du'ā - is that it be recited after the third Takbeer (pronouncement of the statement: 'Allāhu Akbar', i.e. 'Allāh is the Greatest!').

As for the first Takbeer - what is recited after it is al-Fātiḥah (the Opening chapter of the Qur'ān)⁵⁶:

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

Bis-mil-lā-hir-Rah-mā-nir-Ra-ḥeem

⁵⁴ In one of the narrations from the Arabic Manuscripts of Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim, the particle here is 'Wāw', meaning 'and', while in another narration it has 'Aw', meaning 'or'. It is possible here that the meaning of 'Aw' here is 'Wāw'; see: 'Mirqāt al-Mafāteḥ Sharḥ Mishkāt al-Maṣābeḥ, 3/1197.

⁵⁵ Ṣaḥeeḥ Muslim, no. 963. Fortress of the Muslim, no. 156.

⁵⁶ The recitation of al-Fātiḥah should be preceded by al-Ist'adhab, i.e. seeking refuge in Allāh from Shayṭān (Satan).

In the name of Allāh, the Most Beneficent, who went astray. [Āmeen]⁵⁸

As for the second Takbeer - what is recited after it is to offer As-Salatu 'Alan-Nabee (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam), i.e. prayers and salutations for the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam):

اللَّهُمَّ صَلِّ عَلَى مُحَمَّدٍ، وَعَلَى آلِ مُحَمَّدٍ،

*Al-Lā-hum-ma ṣal-li 'a-lā Muḥammadin
wa 'a-lā Ā-li Muḥammad(in)
O Allāh, praise and exalt Muḥammad and the family of Muḥammad*

كَمَا صَلَّيْتَ عَلَى إِبْرَاهِيمَ، وَعَلَى آلِ إِبْرَاهِيمَ،

*Ka-ma ṣal-lay-ta 'a-lā Ib-rā-hee-ma wa 'a-lā Ā-li Ib-rā-heem(a).
Just as You praised and exalted Abraham and the family of Abraham.*

إِنَّكَ حَمِيدٌ جَبِيدٌ،

*In-na-ka Ha-mee-dum- Ma-jeed.
Indeed, You are the Most Praised, the Most Glorious.*

اللَّهُمَّ بَارِكْ عَلَى مُحَمَّدٍ، وَعَلَى آلِ مُحَمَّدٍ،

*Al-Lā-hum-ma bā-rik 'a-lā Muḥammadin
wa 'a-lā Ā-li Muḥammad(in)*

⁵⁸ The meaning of the expression 'Āmeen', which is recited at the end of supplications, is: O Allāh, accept (this supplication).

O Allāh, send blessings upon Muḥammad
and the family of Muḥammad

كَمَا بَارَكْتَ عَلَىٰ إِبْرَاهِيمَ، وَعَلَىٰ آلِ إِبْرَاهِيمَ،

Ka-mā bā-rak-ta ‘a-lā lb-rā-hee-ma wa ‘a-lā Ā-li lb-rā-heem(a).

*Just as You sent blessings upon Abraham
and the family of Abraham.*

إِنَّكَ حَمِيدٌ مَّجِيدٌ،

In-na-ka Ha-mee-dum- Ma-jeed.

Indeed, You are the Most Praised, The Most Glorious."

Then, after the third Takbeer, one should recite this supplication [mentioned above⁵⁹] or any of the supplications which have been authentically transmitted [from the Prophet (ﷺ) SallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam].

Explanation of the Supplication:

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ) SallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam: “O Allāh! Forgive him and have mercy upon him...”: al-Magh-firah (forgiveness) means covering the sins, along with passing over them (i.e. their punishment). As for ar-Rahmah, it is even more far-reaching, since it entails achieving that which is desired (the favors of Allāh), after the removal of that which is detested (the punishment of Allāh).

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ) SallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam: “...grant him well-being and pardon him...”: i.e. protect him from the punishment and grant him safety from it, and pardon him for the slips [into prohibited acts] and shortcomings [in the obligatory duties] that he has fallen into.

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ) SallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam: “... grant him an honorable residence and provision,”: here the word 'Nuzul' [i.e. 'honorable residence and provision] refers to whatever the guest is provided with, i.e. make his place of residence and the hospitality offered to him - in Your Presence - to be honorable.

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ): “...make his place of entry spacious,”: i.e. make his grave spacious for him and roomy; and likewise, make his stations in Your Presence in paradise spacious. Here the word 'Mudkhal' (place of entry) is singular, as the first part of a construct phrase, which makes its meaning general [i.e. including one's place of admittance in the grave as well as one's admittance into paradise].

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ): “...wash him with water, snow and hail,”: these three things are meant to meet the heat of sins, and hence cool it down and extinguish its flames.

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ): “...purify him from his sins just as You have purified the white garment from stains”: this is from the word 'tanqiyah' which has the meaning of 'tat-beer' (purification), meaning: purify him from his sins and errors, just as You clean and purify the white garment from the stains which become attached to it. Here he made particular mention of the white (garment), since removing dirt from it is more apparent than in other colors.

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ): “...grant a home that is better than his home,”: i.e. admit him into paradise, the abode of honor (from You), in exchange for the abode of this world which he has left behind.

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ): “...and a family that is better than his family and spouse that is better than his spouse,”: i.e. exchange for him those who are better than those (left behind). And this exchange is inclusive of the individuals as well as the qualities or characteristics.

In reference to the specific individuals, it is that Allah will replace for him those [family members who he left behind in this world] with those who will be better than them in His place of Honor (i.e. paradise).

In reference to the qualities or characteristics, it is that the elderly woman will become youthful again, and those of evil character will become of good character, and those who are not beautiful will become beautiful.

Then, he asked that Allāh admit him (i.e. the deceased) into paradise and save him from the Hell-fire, and grant him safety from the trial of the grave - by him being protected from its evil and its (bad) effects.

From among those (supplications) which are to be recited in the funeral prayer for the deceased, is that which is reported by Aḥmad, Ibn Mājah and others, from the Ḥadeeth of Abu Hurairah (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu), who said: The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) performed the prayer over a deceased person, and said:

اللَّهُمَّ اغْفِرْ لِحَيِّنَا، وَمَيِّتِنَا، وَشَاهِدِنَا، وَعَائِسِنَا، وَصَغِيرِنَا، وَكَبِيرِنَا وَذَكَرِنَا، وَأُنثَانَا،
اللَّهُمَّ مَنْ أَحْيَيْتَهُ مِنَّا فَأَحْيِهِ عَلَى الْإِسْلَامِ، وَمَنْ تَوَفَّيْتَهُ مِنَّا فَتَوَفَّهُ عَلَى الْإِيمَانِ.
اللَّهُمَّ لَا تَحْرِمْنَا أَجْرَهُ، وَلَا تُضِلَّنَا بَعْدَهُ

Allāhum-ma-gh-fir Li-Ḥayyi-nā wa Mayyiti-nā wa Shāhidi-nā wa Ghā'ibi-nā wa Ṣagheeri-nā wa Kabeeri-nā wa Dhakari-nā wa Unthā-nā. Allāhum-ma Man Ahyay-ta-hu min-nā fa-Ahyi-hi 'ala-l-Islām(i), wa Man Tawaf-fayta-hu min-nā fa-Tawaf-fa-hu 'ala-l-Emān(i). Allāhum-ma Lā Tahrim-nā Ajra-hu wa Lā Tudilla-nā ba'da-h(u).

'O Allāh! Forgive our living and our dead, those who are present and those who are absent, our young and our old, our males and our females. O Allāh! Whoever you give life to - from among us - then, grant him a life upon Islām, and whoever you cause to die - from among us - cause him to die upon Emān. O Allāh! Do not deprive us of his reward, and do not cause us to go astray (Ḍalālah) after him.'⁶⁰

This is a magnificent supplication which encompasses the deceased upon whom the prayer is being performed and the other Muslims besides him, the living from among them and the dead, the young and old, the males and females, the one who is present from among them and the absent, because each one (of them) shares the need, or rather the necessity of receiving the forgiveness of Allāh, His pardon and His mercy.

For everyone who supplicates with this supplication, there will be a Hasanah (good deed) recorded for him - for every one of the Muslim males and Muslim females, those who came before him and those who will come after him [i.e. he will receive a Hasanah for everyone who is included in this supplication of his]!

This is due to what has been confirmed as being authentic in 'al-Mu'jam al-Kabeer' of at-Ṭabarānee, with a chain of narrators that is Hasan (good, acceptable), on the authority of 'Ubādah ibn aṣ-Ṣāmit (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-hu) who said: The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'Whoever asks for forgiveness of the believing men and believing women, Allāh will record for him - for every believing man and woman - a Hasanah (good deed)'.⁶¹

Explanation of the Supplication:

The saying of the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam): “O Allāh! Whoever you give life to - from among us - then, grant him a life upon Islām, and whoever you cause to die - from among us - cause him to die upon Emān....”: So, the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) mentioned al-Islām during one's life, and al-Emān at the time of death. And this is because when al-Islām is mentioned along with al-Emān, what is intended by al-Islām are the apparent practical Sharee'ah laws, while what is intended by al-Emān are the internal beliefs and creed.

For this reason, it was appropriate to mention al-Islām concerning the living, since as long as a person is still living, then one still has the opportunity and chance to perform acts [i.e. of obedience to Allāh] and worship.

Otherwise, once a person dies, there is no longer any opportunity to do these things. Nay, there is no opportunity except to die upon the correct beliefs and creed, and sound faith - by the permission of Allāh.

⁶¹ Majma' az-Zawā'id, 10/210. al-Albānee (Raḥimahullāh) declared it to be Hasan (good, acceptable) in 'Ṣaḥeeh al-Jāmi'', no. 6026.

For this reason, he said: '...and whoever you cause to die - from among us - cause him to die upon Emān.'

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ): "...O Allāh! Do not deprive us of his reward...": i.e. the reward which we will earn from the preparation of his body for burial, the prayer upon him, following his funeral procession and burying him. And similarly, the reward which we will earn from our patience with the calamity which afflicted us in his death.

As for the reward for his deeds, then, this is for him, and there is nothing in it for us.

The saying of the Prophet (ﷺ): "...and do not cause us to go astray after him...": i.e. protect us from misguidance and distance us from trials and slips/mistakes after our loss of him (i.e. the deceased).

From among those (supplications) which are to be recited in the funeral prayer for the deceased, is that which is reported by at-Tabarānee in 'al-Mu'jam al-Kabeer' and al-Hākim, on the authority of Yazeed ibn Rukānah ibn al-Muttalib (RadīyAllāhu 'an-hu), who said: Whenever the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) stood up to perform the funeral prayer over a deceased person, he would say:

اللَّهُمَّ عَبْدُكَ وَابْنُ أُمَّتِكَ اِحْتَاَجُ اِلَى رَحْمَتِكَ، وَأَنْتَ عَنِّي عَنْ عَذَابِهِ،

فَإِنْ كَانَ مُحْسِنًا فَرِّدْ فِي إِحْسَانِهِ، وَإِنْ كَانَ مُسِيئًا فَتَجَاوَزْ عَنْهُ

Allāhum-ma 'Abdu-ka wabnu Amati-ka Ih-tāja ilā Raḥmati-ka, wa Anta Ghaneeyun 'an 'Adhābi-h(i). Fa-In Kāna Muḥ-sinan, Fa-Zid fee Ih-sāni-h(i), wa In Kāna Musee'an, Fa-Tajāwaz 'an-h(u).

'O Allāh! He is Your worshiper, the son of your female worshiper, in need of Your mercy (Raḥmah) while You are Free of need of punishing him. If he was a doer of good (Muḥsin), then increase his good deeds (Ḥasanāt), and if he was a doer of evil (Musee'), then pass over (his sins).'

And this is a confirmed (i.e. authentic) Hadeeth.⁶²

Imām Mālik has recorded in al-Muwatta', on the authority of Sa'eed al-Maqburee that he asked Abu Hurairah (RadiyAllāhu 'an-hu): How do you perform prayer over the dead? Abu Hurairah (RadiyAllāhu 'an-hu) responded saying: I will - by Allāh - inform you. I follow the deceased from its family [i.e. from its home]. Then, when it is put down (at the place of prayer), I declare the greatness of Allāh [i.e. saying: 'Allāhu Akbar' (Allāh is the greatest)], and declare the praise of Allāh [i.e. saying: 'al-Hamdu lillāh' (All praise belongs to Allāh)], perform salutations upon His Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) [i.e. saying: 'Allāhumma Ṣalli 'ala Muḥammad...'(ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam)]. After this I say:

اللَّهُمَّ إِنَّهُ عَبْدُكَ وَابْنُ عَبْدِكَ وَابْنُ أُمَّتِكَ كَانَ يَشْهَدُ أَنْ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا أَنْتَ. وَأَنَّ مُحَمَّدًا
عَبْدُكَ وَرَسُولُكَ. وَأَنْتَ أَعْلَمُ بِهِ. اللَّهُمَّ إِنْ كَانَ مُحْسِنًا، فَرِدْ فِي إِحْسَانِهِ. وَإِنْ كَانَ
مُسيئًا، فَتَجَاوَزْ عَنْ سَيِّئَاتِهِ. اللَّهُمَّ لَا تَحْرِمْنَا أَجْرَهُ، وَلَا تَفْتِنَّا بَعْدَهُ

Allāhum-ma Inna-hu 'Abdu-ka wabnu 'Abdi-ka wabnu Amati-ka.

ka wa Rasoolu-ka. Wa Anta A'lamu Bi-hi. Allāhum-ma In Kāna
Muh-sinan, Fa-Zid fee Ih-sāni-hi, wa In Kāna Musee'an, Fa-Tajāwaz
'an Sayyi'āti-h(i). Allāhum-ma Lā Tahrim-nā Ajra-hu wa Lā Taf-tin-nā ba'da-h(u).

'O Allāh! Indeed, he is Your worshiper, the son of your male worshiper, the son of your female worshiper. He used to bear witness that there is nothing worthy of worship except You and that Muḥammad (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) is Your worshiper and Messenger. And You are the most knowledgeable about him. O Allāh! If he was a doer of good (Muhsin), then increase his goodness (Ihsaan), and if he was a doer of evil (Musee'), then pass over his sins. O Allāh! Do not deprive us of his reward, and do not put us to trial (fitnah) after him.'⁶³

We ask Allāh to forgive us and all of the Muslims who have passed away. Indeed, He is the All-Forgiving (al-Ghafoor), the Most Merciful (ar-Raḥeem).

What Is To Be Said At The Time Of Burying The Deceased And After It

Discussion has preceded concerning what supplications are to be said in the prayer for the deceased (Salātul-Janāzah). Here we will clarify what is to be said at the time of the burial of the deceased, as well as what is to be said after the burial, what is said to the near relatives at the time of offering condolences to them, as well as what is said on the occasion of visiting the graves.

It is from the Sunnah that the one who is placing the deceased into the grave⁶⁴ say (twice):

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ وَعَلَى سُنَّةِ رَسُولِ اللَّهِ

Bismillāh(i) wa 'Alā Sunnati Rasoolillāh(i)

In the name of Allāh and upon the Sunnah (practice/way) of the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam).

Or

وَعَلَى مِلَّةِ رَسُولِ اللَّهِ

....Wa 'Alā Millati Rasoolillāh(i)

In the name of Allāh and upon the Millah (religious practice) of the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam).

This is based upon that which is reported by Abu Dāwood, at-Tirmidhee, Ibn Mājah and others, from Abdullāh ibn 'Umar (RadīyAllāhu 'an-humā): that when the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) would place the deceased person in the grave, he would say:

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ وَعَلَى سُنَّةِ رَسُولِ اللَّهِ

Bismillāhi wa 'Alā Sunnati Rasoolillāh(i)

⁶⁴ The word used here is 'Lahd' which may simply refer to the grave, in general, or more specifically, a niche for the corpse in the lateral wall at the side of the grave.

In the name of Allāh and upon the Sunnah (practice/way) of the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam).

And in a narration it has:

وَعَلَىٰ مِلَّةِ رَسُولِ اللَّهِ

....Wa 'Alā Millati Rasoolillāh(i)

In the name of Allāh and upon the Millah (religious practice) of the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam).

In another narration it is reported that the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'Whenever you (i.e. the people) place your deceased ones in the graves, then you should say:', and he mentioned the above supplication.⁶⁵

After completing the burial, it is from the Sunnah to supplicate for the deceased to be forgiven and that he remain firm at the time of questioning [i.e. the questioning by the two angels Munkar and Nakeer].

This is based upon that which is reported by Aboo Dāwood and others, from 'Uthmān ibn 'Affān (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-hu) that he said:

كَانَ النَّبِيُّ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ، إِذَا فَرَعَ مِنْ دَفْنِ الْمَيِّتِ وَقَفَ عَلَيْهِ، فَقَالَ:
«اسْتَغْفِرُوا لِأَخِيكُمْ، وَسَلُّوا لَهُ التَّشْيِيتَ، فَإِنَّهُ الْآنَ يُسْأَلُ»

'Whenever the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) finished burying a dead person, he would stand over him and then say: 'Seek forgiveness for your brother and ask that he be made firm, for indeed he is being questioned right now'.⁶⁶

⁶⁶ Sunan Abu Dāwood, no. 3221. It was declared to be authentic by al-Albānee (Raḥimahullāh) in 'Ṣaḥeeḥ al-Jāmi', no. 4760

It is not legislated on this occasion that anything from the Qur'ān be recited, nor that the deceased be reminded of his proof [i.e. the words of Shahādah]⁶⁷ - as is practiced by some of the people. There is no Hadeeth which confirms this practice.

Rather, that which is legislated on this occasion - as has preceded - is seeking forgiveness for the deceased and asking Allāh to make him firm [at the time of questioning by the angels].

What Is Said To The Near Relatives At The Time Of Offering Condolences To Them

As for what is said to the near relatives at the time of offering condolences to them - that which is legislated for the Muslim is to offer condolences to his brother with whatever he thinks will console him, remove his grief, help him to be pleased with the divine decree and patient with the calamity - from those sayings which are confirmed to have been said by the Prophet (ﷺ) on this occasion, if he can remember any of these sayings. Otherwise, he may say whatever is easy for him of beautiful speech and nice sayings which achieve the objective (of consoling the family members), and which are not in contradiction to the Islamic legislation.

[Know that] the Muslim is rewarded for offering condolences to his brothers and standing with them during the time of their trials and afflictions.

It is recorded in the Hadeeth, from the Prophet (ﷺ) that he said: "There is no Muslim who offers condolences to his brother due to a calamity (that has befallen him), except that Allāh (Azza wa Jalla) will clothe him with the adornments of honor on the Day of Resurrection." Reported by Ibn Mājah and others.⁶⁸

From that which has been reported in the Sunnah concerning offering condolences, is that which is collected by al-Bukhāree and Muslim, from Usāmah ibn Zaid (RadiyAllāhu ‘an-humā), who said: "The daughter of the Prophet (ﷺ) sent a message to him saying: Indeed, a child of mine's soul has been taken, so come to us. So, the Prophet (ﷺ) sent (someone) to offer greetings of 'Salam' (to her) and to say:

إِنَّ لِلَّهِ مَا أَخَذَ، وَلَهُ مَا أَعْطَى، وَكُلُّ شَيْءٍ عِنْدَهُ بِأَجَلٍ مُّسَمًّى، فَلْتَصْبِرْ، وَلْتَحْتَسِبْ

⁶⁸ Sunan Ibn Mājah, no. 1601. It was declared to be 'Hasan' by al-Albānee (Rahimahullāh) in 'Saheeh at-Targheeb', no. 3508.

Inna Lillāhi Mā Akhadha, wa Lahu Mā A'tā, wa Kullu Shay'in 'inda-hu bi-Ajalin Musammā, Fal-taṣbir wal-taḥtasib.

Indeed, to Allāh belongs that which He has taken, and to Him belongs that which He has given, and everything - with Him - has an appointed term. So, be patient and anticipate (the reward of Allāh).⁶⁹

Imām an-Nawawee (Raḥimahullāh) said: This Hadeeth (contains) one of the supplications with which condolences are offered.

In the Hadeeth of Umm Salamah (RaḍiyAllāhu 'an-hā): When her husband (Abu Salamah) died his eyes were open, so the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) closed them and said: 'Indeed, when the soul is taken (at death), the eyesight follows it [i.e. looking at the soul as it departs]. At this, some of the people of his family wailed, so the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'Do not supplicate against your own selves - except with Khair (i.e. supplicating for something good); for indeed, the angels say: Ameen to what you say (i.e. they ask that your supplication be accepted).'

After this, the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said:

اللَّهُمَّ اغْفِرْ لِأَبِي سَلَمَةَ وَارْفَعْ دَرَجَتَهُ فِي الْمَهْدِيِّينَ، وَاخْلُقْهُ فِي عَقْبِهِ فِي الْعَاثِرِينَ،

وَاعْفِرْ لَنَا وَلَهُ يَا رَبَّ الْعَالَمِينَ، وَأَسْخِ لَهُ فِي قَبْرِهِ، وَنَوِّرْ لَهُ فِيهِ

Allāhumma-gh-fir li-Abee Salamah, war-fa' darajata-hu fil-Mahdeeyeen, wakh-luf-hu fee 'Aqibi-hi fil-Ghābireen, wagh-fir lanā wa lahu Yā Rabba-l-'Ālameen, waf-saḥ lahu fee qabri-hi wa Nawwir lahu feeh(i)

O Allāh! Forgive Abu Salamah, and raise his station among al-Mahdeeyeen (those who are rightly guided), and take care of those whom he has left behind, and forgive us and him, O Rabb of all the worlds, and make his grave spacious for him and fill it with light.' Reported by Muslim⁷⁰

What Is To Be Said At The Time Of Visiting The Graves

As for what is said at the times of visiting the graves - indeed, the Sunnah has come with the legislation of visiting the graves for the purpose of exhortation, being reminded of the hereafter and offering supplication for those who are buried there, that they receive mercy and forgiveness.

Indeed, the people were prohibited - in the early period [of the establishment of Islām] - from visiting the graves, due to the nearness of the time of their leaving al-Jāhiliyyah (the period of ignorance before Islām), out of fear that they might express words from the speech of the people of Jāhiliyyah at the grave sites.

However, when the foundations of Islām became established, and the Islamic rulings had been put in place, and the distinguishing characteristics of Islām became well-known - it was made permissible for them to visit (the graves) - along with clarification of the objectives of this visiting and warning against false speech during these visits.

On the authority of Buraidah ibn al-Huṣaib (RāḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu), who said: the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'Indeed, I used to prohibit you (all) from visiting the graves, [but now I command you to] visit the graves.' [Reported by Muslim, Aḥmad, an-Nasā'ee and others]. In Aḥmad's narration it has the added wording: 'For, indeed, it (i.e. visiting the graves) reminds you of the hereafter.' In the narration of an-Nasā'ee it has the added wording: 'Hence, whoever desires to visit (the graves), then visit, but do not speak words of falsehood (Hujr).'⁷¹ al-Hujr is the speech of falsehood, like supplicating (du'ā) to the dead who are buried in the graves, seeking help (Istighāthah) from them (i.e. the dead) instead of from Allāh, seeking nearness (Tawassul) to Allāh through the dead or seeking blessings (Barakah) from them, and that which is similar to this - of that which is falsehood and misguidance.

⁷¹ Saḥeeḥ Muslim, no. 977, al-Musnad, 5/355, Sunan an-Nasā'ee. 4/89.

Indeed, clarification of what has been legislated for the Muslim to say on the occasion of visiting the graves has come in the Sunnah of the Prophet (ﷺ). And from that is what has been reported by Muslim in his Saheeh (authentic collection of Hadeeth), on the authority of Ummul-Mu'mineen (the Mother of the Believers) Ā'ishah (RadīyAllāhu 'anha), from the Prophet (ﷺ) who said: 'Verily, Jibreel (the angel Gabriel) came to me and said: 'Verily, your Rabb (Lord and Creator) commands you to come to the people buried in al-Baqee' (cemetery) and then to seek forgiveness for them.' She (Ā'ishah) said: I said: What shall I say to them O Messenger of Allāh?' He said: 'Say:

السَّلَامُ عَلَى أَهْلِ الدِّيَارِ مِنَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ وَالْمُسْلِمِينَ، وَيَرْحَمُ اللَّهُ الْمُسْتَقْدِمِينَ مِنَّا
وَالْمُسْتَأْخِرِينَ، وَإِنَّا إِنْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ بِكُمْ لَلَّاحِقُونَ "

As-Salāmu 'alā Ahlid-Diyāri minal-Mu'mineena wal-Muslimeen(a), wa Yarḥamullāhu-l-Mustaqdimeena minnā wal-Musta'khireen(a), wa Innā In Shā' Allāhu bi-kum La-Lāḥiqoon(a)

May the Salām (peace) be upon the people of these abodes (i.e. those buried in these graves), those who are *Mu'mins*⁷² and those who are *Muslims*⁷³, and may Allāh have mercy upon those who have preceded from among us and those who will follow later. And indeed, we - if Allāh Wills - shall definitely follow you.⁷⁴

Muslim has also narrated from Buraidah (RadīyAllāhu 'an-hu) that he said: 'The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to teach them [what to say] if they went out to the cemetery. Hence, one of them would say:

السَّلَامُ عَلَيْكُمْ أَهْلَ الدِّيَارِ مِنَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ وَالْمُسْلِمِينَ، وَإِنَّا إِنْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ لَلَّاحِقُونَ،

⁷² Mu'min here refers to the higher level of those who have perfected their Emān (faith).

⁷³ Muslim here refers to those who have submitted or surrendered, though not yet having reached the higher level of Emān.

⁷⁴ Saheeh Muslim, no. 974.

As-Salāmu 'Alaikum Ahlad-Diyāri minal-Mu'mineena wal-Muslimeen(a), wa Innā In Shā' Allāhu La-Lāḥiqoon(a), As'alullāha lanā wa lakumul-'Āfiyah

'as-Salām (Peace) be upon you, O People of these abodes (i.e. the dead), those who are Mu'mins and those who are Muslims, and indeed, we - if Allāh Wills - shall definitely follow. I ask Allāh for us and for you (all) well-being (al-'Āfiyah).⁷⁵

Ibnul-Qayyim (Rahimabullāh), in his book, 'Zād al-Ma'ād', when speaking about the guidance of the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) concerning visiting the graves, says: 'Whenever the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) visited the graves of his companions, he would visit them for the purpose of supplication for them, seeking mercy for them, and seeking forgiveness for them. And this is the manner of visiting (the graves) which he has established for his Ummah (i.e. the Muslim nation) and legislated for them. And he has commanded - if/when they visit the graves - that they say: 'as-Salām (Peace) be upon you, O People of these abodes (i.e. the dead), those who are Mu'mins and those who are Muslims, and indeed, we - if Allāh Wills - shall follow you. We ask Allāh for us and for you (all) well-being (al-'Āfiyah).'

It was also from his guidance that one say and do - at the time of visiting the graves - the same types of things which one says in the prayer (Ṣalātul-Janāzah) over the deceased, including supplicating (du'ā), asking for mercy (rahmah) and seeking forgiveness (maghfirah).

However, the pagan disbelievers refused [to comply with the law of Allāh] and insisted on supplicating to the dead, and making them as partners with Allāh (in Shirk), asking Allāh due to the status of the dead with Allāh, asking the dead (themselves) to grant their needs, seeking help from the dead and turning to them [instead of turning to Allāh] - the very opposite of the guidance of the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam).

⁷⁵ Saḥeeḥ Muslim, no. 975.

Indeed, the Prophet's (ﷺ) path is the path of Tawḥeed (i.e. worshipping Allāh alone) and doing good towards the dead, while the path of these (pagan disbelievers) is Shirk (making partners with Allāh) and doing evil to themselves and to the dead.

They (i.e. the pagan disbelievers) are divided into three divisions:

1. Either those who supplicate to the dead, or
2. Those who supplicate by way of the dead [instead of directly to Allāh], or
3. Those who supplicate [to Allāh] in the presence of the dead, believing that supplicating near the dead is more essential and has a greater right than supplicating in the Masājid (i.e. the places set up for the worship of Allāh Alone).

So, whoever reflects upon the guidance of the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) and his companions (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hum), will find the difference made clear between these two affairs (i.e. the two paths). And success is from Allāh.⁷⁶ [To the end of what he said]

Based upon what has preceded, it becomes crystal clear that the conditions of the people - as it relates to the visiting of the graves - does not go outside of four conditions:

First:

That he visits the graves for the purpose of supplication for the dead. Hence, he asks Allāh to grant them forgiveness and mercy; and as well, he visits for the purpose of taking a lesson from the condition of the dead people and what they have gone on to (i.e. as dead in their graves). This causes him to take a lesson and to be reminded [of what he should be doing with his life]. And this is the legislated (lawful) manner of visiting the graves.

⁷⁶ Zād al-Ma'ād, 1/526 - 527.

Second:

That he visits the graves for the purpose of supplication at the gravesite - for himself and for those whom he loves - believing that supplication in the cemeteries, or near the graves of the righteous, is better and more likely to be accepted and responded to. And this is an evil innovation (bid'ah munkarah).

Third:

That he visits the graves for the purpose of supplicating to Allāh - but, by seeking nearness to Him by means of the special status and rights of those dead (who are buried there). Hence, he supplicates saying: I ask You, O my Rabb (Lord and Creator), by the special status of so-and-so, or by the right of so-and-so. This is a forbidden innovation (bid'ah muharramah) and a means that leads to Shirk (the worship of other than Allāh).

Fourth:

That he visits the graves for the purpose of supplicating to the dead people who are buried (in those graves), and appealing to them for aid, requesting support and help from them, healing (of the sick) and other than that. This is major Shirk which takes a person out of the religion of al-Islām.

We ask Allāh to protect us and you (all), and that He grants us success in everything of goodness. Indeed, He is Hearing (Samee') and Responding (Mujeeb).

Conclusion

This is the end of what the Shaykh (may Allāh protect and preserve him) presented in the chapters dealing with the supplications and etiquettes found in the authentic Sunnah which relate to visiting the sick or dying person, funeral prayers, the burial, condolences and visiting the graves.

May Allāh, the Most High, grant each reader the Tamfeeq (success) to recognize and realize the importance and benefit of these divinely inspired etiquettes of the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) related to visiting the sick and dying, funeral prayers and visiting the graves; and then place in our hearts the desire and ability to act upon them.

May Allāh, the Most High, grant ease to each of us in memorizing the appropriate words of remembrance and supplications related to each of these occasions; and then allow our hearts to find comfort in the remembrance of our Lord.

May Allāh accept our praise of Him, respond to our requests from Him and make our deeds - done in compliance with the pure Sunnah, purely for His Sake Alone - be a means of nearness to Him. Indeed, He is the One Who Hears, Accepts and Responds to those who call upon Him.

May Allāh, our Lord, forgive us our sins, multiply our good deeds and raise our station with Him!

Our final supplication is al-Ḥamdu-lil-lāhi Rabbi-l-Ālameen (All Praise Belongs to Allāh, the Lord of all the worlds); and may the Praise of Allāh - in the highest assemblies of the angels - and safety and security be upon His final Prophet and Messenger, Muḥammad (ﷺ).
Āmeen!

Points To Consider Before the Wāṣeeyah (Last Will & Testament)

All praise belongs to Allāh and He is Sufficient; and may the praise and peace be upon His servants whom He has chosen. To proceed:

Indeed, the Muslim who understands the reason for his existence in this life, and understands that he was created to worship Allāh alone, without any partners, and has therefore prepared (himself, for this purpose) with Taqwa (piety), and strengthened himself with righteous deeds, and prepared himself for the meeting with his Lord – he will be constantly longing for the occasion of seeing Him, and standing before Him. And whoever loves to meet Allāh, Allāh loves to meet him.

Indeed, the reality of death is never out of his sight, nor does its mention frighten him. Rather, he is always awaiting his day, prepared for his appointed time, preparing himself just as someone prepares - who has resolved to make a journey to a place where he may stay for a long time, or from where he may not return. Yet, this consciousness does not affect his personal efforts that represents his contribution towards the maintenance and upkeep of the world (that he lives in), and which allows him to suffice himself with that which is lawful; and to be free of need of that which is unlawful and from the humiliation of begging others.

For this reason he is eager – while his condition is like this – to have his registry/record of good deeds continue to increase – always – even after his death. Hence, he eagerly seeks to establish, during his lifetime, an ongoing charity (Ṣadaqah Jāriyah); or some property/real estate set up as an endowment for the sake of Allāh, as a charity from which its income will be spent for charitable purposes; or that he shares in authoring a beneficial book, or have a share in printing it, or something similar to this.

Similarly, he is eager to raise his children upon righteousness and piety since righteous offspring are the best help and support for a human being, as they will supplicate for him and give charity on his behalf, and ask Allāh to give the reward of their righteous deeds to their parents.

He also has the right to write for himself a bequest - to be executed after his death – similar to this, in the areas of charity, or to someone who is not one of his inheritors, within the bounds of one-third of his wealth, but not exceeding this, unless his inheritors agree to an increase (beyond the one-third).

Some scholars of Islāmic jurisprudence considered it preferable to limit such a will to one-fourth or one-fifth, based upon the saying of the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam): ‘(make it) one-third, and (even) one-third is a lot.’

This should be done in such a way that it does not leave his inheritors in poverty, wherein they will be begging from other people. If his inheritors were in need of this wealth (which he is bequeathing to someone else), then it is disliked that he bequeath any portion of it to anyone other than his inheritors.

Likewise, he should be careful not to leave behind anything that would be used in disobedience to Allāh, such as the forbidden instruments of music/entertainment; or wealth left in the interest-bearing banks; or property that has been rented out to those who used it for purposes of disobedience to Allāh, and anything similar to this.

It is incumbent that he makes it clear to those who will remain after him whatever he himself has left as an endowment (Waqf), as well as any endowments (Awqāf) which others have left under his care; or if he has a bequeath for anyone other than his inheritors, and anything that he owes to other people, as well as any deposits left in his care (Wadā’i) or anything entrusted to him (Amānāt), or any inheritance (Tarikāt) that he has any connection to, which has not yet been distributed; or – for example – an automobile or piece of real estate which is registered in his name but belongs to someone else or in which he is a partner; or anything from the rights of Allāh, such as obligatory charity (Zakāh) or an expiation (Kaffārah) due to be paid by him which he delayed for some necessary reason.

All of this is so that he does not leave any opportunity for his inheritors to fall into dispute among themselves, nor any dispute between themselves and other people. In this way, he will meet Allāh, the Most High, not having wronged himself or anyone else, his soul being pleased, one whom people will pray for and not against.

All of the above are reasons for a Muslim to respond to the commands of Allāh, the Most High, and the commands of His Messenger (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam), by writing the Last Will and Testament (al-Waṣeeyah).

Allāh, the Most High, said:

يٰۤاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ ءَامَنُوْا شَهِدُوْا بَيْنَكُمْۙ اِذَا حَضَرَ اَحَدُكُمْۙ الْمَوْتُ حِيْنَ الْوَصِيَّةِ

اِنْسَانٍ ذُوْا عَدْلٍ مِّنْكُمْۙ اَوْ اٰخَرَانِ مِّنْ غَيْرِكُمْۙ

“O you who believe, testimony (should be taken) from among you when death approaches one of you at the time of bequests – (that of) two just men from among you or two others from outside...” [Qur’ān, 5:106]

The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: “It is not right for any Muslim who has any wealth to be inherited that he spend two nights – and in one narration, it has: three nights – except that his bequest/will (waṣeeyah) should be with him in writing.”

Abdullāh ibn ‘Umar (RaḍiyAllāhu an-hu) said: “Not a single night has passed me by since I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) say this, except that my bequest (waṣeeyah) was with me.” [al-Bukhāree and Muslim; the wording is from Muslim]

In another Hadeeth – with an acceptable chain of narrators – “The one who is deprived (al-Mahroom) is the one who is deprived of his Waṣeeyah.” [Sunan Ibn Mājah, no. 2700] And in the Hadeeth of Ibn Mājah (no. 2701): “Whoever died and left a Waṣeeyah, has died upon the Way (of Allāh) and Sunnah...” [Imām Al-Albānee (Raḥimahullāh) declared both of these narrations to be weak (Da’eef) in the Sunan of Ibn Mājah]

Imām Ash-Shāfi’ee (Raḥimahullāh) said: “From the correctness of the affair of a person is that his Waṣeeyah is never separated from him.”

From this we know the importance of hastening to write the Waseeyah (the 'Will') and not delaying it. Writing the Waseeyah does not bring one's end (death) near, just as delaying it does not distance its time (i.e. the time of one's end). Rather, the time of one's departure (from this world) may come at a moment when a person is incapable to say even one word. In this case, an extremely important matter related to the responsibility of the deceased; or a valuable opportunity to earn some reward (with Allāh) and the expiation for sins - after the cutting off of one's time (in this world); or that which he had intended from the bequests of righteous deeds for himself or others may all go undone.

Beware, my Muslim brother, of ending your life with a bequest of sin and deviation. Indeed, it is an evil ending for someone writing his Waseeyah to intentionally deny his inheritors their right of inheritance, like the one who writes a bequest to one of his grandsons for the benefit of that child's father; or agreeing to debts that are false; or writing something in the Waseeyah for an inheritor in exchange for him performing some duty which is (actually) obligatory upon him, like looking after the wife (of the deceased) or his child - during his sickness - under the guise that he has labored or been inconvenienced, and such things like this; or that he uses some trick to decrease the rightful share of inheritance for the female inheritors, ignoring the statement of Allāh, the Most High:

“In that which your wives leave, your share is a half, if they have no child; but if they leave a child, you get a fourth of that which they leave, after payment of any bequeath they may have made or debts. In that which you leave, their (your wives) share is a fourth, if you leave no child; but if you leave a child, they get an eighth of that which you leave, after payment of any bequeath you may have made or debts. If the man or woman whose inheritance is in question has left neither ascendants nor descendants, but has left a brother or a sister, each one of the two gets a sixth; but if more than two, they share in a third, after payment of any bequeath he (or she) may have made or debts, so that no loss is caused (to anyone). This is a Commandment from Allāh; and Allāh is Ever All-Knowing, Most-Forbearing. [Qur'ān, 4:12]

Abu Hurairah (RaḍiyAllāhu an-hu) said that the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: “Verily, a man will perform the deeds of Ahlul-Khair (the People of Goodness) for seventy years. Then, when he makes his Waseeyah he does injustice (to someone) in the writing of his bequests. Consequently, his life will be concluded with the most evil of his deeds, resulting in him being admitted into the Hell-Fire. Another man will perform the deeds of Ahlush-Sharr (the People of Evil) for seventy years. Then, when he makes his Waseeyah he does justice (by everyone) in the writing of his Waseeyah. Consequently, his life will be concluded with the best of his deeds, resulting in him being admitted into the Paradise. The narrator then said: Abu Hurairah (RaḍiyAllāhu an-hu) said: You may read, if you like [in confirmation of what I am saying]: ‘These are the limits of Allāh...’ up until His saying: ‘a humiliating punishment.’” [Reported by Imām Aḥmad. Shaykh Aḥmad Muḥammad Shākir said: Its chain of narrators is authentic (Ṣaḥeeḥ)]

Likewise, I warn you against the Waseeyah which contains forbidden innovations, even if the people have accepted such things, like crying and screaming over the dead (an-Niyaaḥab), extravagant waste (at-Tab-dbeer), building a structure over the grave, and shrouding the body with silk and brocade. Surely, Allāh has made a way out for the inheritors, whenever they find the likes of these false practices, sinful behavior and deviations in the Waseeyah – that they may change these things. However, it is more proper that such changes be done under the supervision of a Sharee’ah Judge. And it is not permissible to make any changes in the Waseeyah as long as it does not contain any deviation or sinful (clauses).

O my Muslim brother, you must know that (the writing of) the Waseeyah is a commendable act - overall. However, it is not obligatory except in reference to those rights (of others) over you which must be fulfilled. It is commendable to put it in writing and have it witnessed. However, if it is not easy to have this done and the inheritors agree to what has been bequeathed, in this case the Waseeyah is legitimate.

The Waseeyah does not have a particular wording, or a specific introduction. Rather, any wording through which it is known what is due to the writer of the Waseeyah (i.e. the Testator/ Muwassin) and what is due from him, then, this is a (legitimate) Waseeyah.

It is permissible for the one making a Waseeyah (i.e. the Testator/Muwassin) to terminate his Waseeyah, or to modify it by adding something to it or subtracting something from it, as long as that does not lead to something forbidden.

If the one making a Waseeyah does not define specifically how his estate should be distributed, then it is required of the executor (i.e. the one appointed to execute it) to do so in the most beneficial manner. Hence, he is to distribute it in those areas that he sees as containing the greatest reward, without difficulty or hardship.

It is legislated that one instruct (in his 'Will') that his small children be looked after (and protected), as well as the protection of their wealth, the marriage of his daughters, division of the inheritance, and payment of debts. He may appoint one person to do all of this, or he may appoint more than one person (to share the responsibility). This is something good, in order to prevent disputes among the inheritors.

So, fear Allāh, O servant of Allāh! Hasten – even in a temporary fashion – to put into writing the Waseeyah ('Will'). Would you not like to meet Allāh, the Most High, with the Waseeyah in your hand, filled with justice, fairness and that which is good? This should be done before the people hear the Sayḥab (Shout, i.e. the first blast of the horn, at the time of Judgment)

(... فَلَا يَسْتَطِيعُونَ تَوْصِيَةً وَلَا إِلَىٰ أَهْلِهِمْ يَرْجِعُونَ)

“... Then they will not be able to make a bequest, nor will they return to their family.” [Qur'ān, 36:49, 50]

And may the praise of Allāh (in the Highest Assemblies of the Angels) and peace, safety and security be upon our leader, our Prophet Muḥammad, and upon his followers and companions.

This is My Waseeyah

The praise belongs to Allāh, the Lord of all the worlds. And I bear witness that nothing deserves to be worshipped except Allāh, Alone, without any partners; He gives life and causes death, and He has power over everything. I also bear witness that Muḥammad (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) is His servant and His Messenger, and the best of His creation; he delivered the message, fulfilled the trust, and advised this Ummah (Muslim community). May the praise of Allāh, peace, safety and security be upon him, his followers and companions until the Day of Judgment...After this...

This is what I,

the servant who is in need of Allāh, the Most High, have bequeathed:

I bear witness that nothing deserves to be worshipped except Allāh, Alone, without any partners; and that Muḥammad (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) is His servant and His Messenger; and that Esā (AlaihisSalām) is the servant of Allāh and His Messenger, and His word which He bestowed upon Maryam, and a spirit created by Him; and the Paradise is True and the Hell-Fire is True, and that death is True, and that there is no doubt about the Hour of Judgment, and that Allāh will resurrect those who are in the graves, and that whoever is removed far from the Fire and admitted into the Paradise has certainly achieved success!

Verily, I call Allāh as a witness to this Waseeyah ('Will') of mine, and after that I call to witness those who are the witnesses, that I have indeed made this Waseeyah, and that they know that I am of sound mind and that I understand (what I am doing), doing it of free choice, without anyone compelling me.

Know – O beloved ones – that I will depart from you, even if it is after a long time, and Allāh has certainly decreed death to befall every human being. So, the most intelligent of you is the one who is most obedient to his Lord.

This is a farewell Was̄eeyah and an advice of compassion and concern which I hope reaches your hearts and leaves an impression upon your lives; perhaps Allāh, the Most High, will join us together ‘in a seat of truth (i.e. Paradise) near the Omnipotent King.’ [Qur’ān, 54:55]

O my sons! Allāh has chosen for you the (true) religion, therefore, die not except in the Faith of Islām (as Muslims, upon Islāmic monotheism). [Qur’ān, 2:132]

Verily, I advise you to pile up provisions from this fleeting worldly life, by doing righteous deeds which are based upon the two fundamental principles: al-Ikhlās (sincerity) and Mutāba’atur-Rasool (Strictly Following the Messenger of Allāh) (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam); and in particular, observing aṣ-Ṣalāh (prayer), aṣ-Ṣalāh (prayer), aṣ-Ṣalāh (obligatory charity), Ṣawmu Ramaḍān (the fasting of the month of Ramaḍān) and al-Ḥajj (pilgrimage). Do not fall short in fulfilling any of these duties, as these – along with ash-Shahādātāin (the Two Testimonies, i.e. Lā ilāha illAllāh, MuḥammadurRasoolullāh) – are the great Pillars of Islām.

I also warn you against ash-Shirk (joining others in partnership with Allāh) and its various forms, and from Bida’ (innovations), as-Sihr (magic) and the rest of the evil actions – that which is considered insignificant in your eyes and that which is considered serious. Indeed, the minor sins may pile up upon a person until they destroy him. May Allāh grant me, you and all Muslims refuge from this.

I also advise you to be kind to parents, obedient to those in authority, in everything that does not involve sin; to stay far away from al-Fitan (trials, tribulations...) and all areas of differences (i.e. arguing and disputing over religious issues).

I encourage you to read the Noble Qur’ān and to memorize it; to seek the religious knowledge which enables you to perform your worship of Allāh, so that you will worship Allāh based upon clear knowledge; and to seek every type of beneficial knowledge, in all fields of life.

Likewise, I encourage you to be among those chosen by Allāh to convey His invitation (to Islām), to command the good and forbid the evil, and that you be patient in doing so.

Beware of differing and disputing, as this is the sickness which stirs up bitter feelings in the hearts (against others), and fuels enmity and hatred, and causes loved ones to separate (from one another). Surely, I hope that you all will live with love and affection (between you), cooperating in performing the good deeds, mutually supporting one another during the ups and downs of life.

Indeed, my expectation of you is only good, so preserve my rights over you by continuing your kindness towards me, through maintaining the ties (of blood-relations), doing all types of good deeds, supplicating and seeking forgiveness (for me), visiting my grave, and keeping ties with my relatives and my friends.

Pardon me – all of you, May Allāh bless you all – free me of blame for my shortcomings in that which is your right, and overlook my sins committed against you, and may Allāh overlook your sins.

I also remind you to be patient with my separation (at the time of death), and to avoid disobedience to Allāh with Niyāḥab (wailing) over me, or building any structure over my grave, or any other religious infractions (opposed to the Islāmic Law).

And I hope that you will remain at my grave, after I am buried, equal to the amount of time that it takes to slaughter a camel and cut it up into pieces, all that time asking (Allāh) that I remain firm (during the questioning in the grave).

As for my personal bequest for my loved ones, it is as follows:

Firstly: Begin by paying all of my debts, returning all that has been left in my care and entrusted to me, from that which I am responsible to return to the people; as well as the monetary obligations upon me which are owed to Allāh. Execute what is in this Waseeyah of mine, from what I have bequeathed to others besides my inheritors, or any endowment (Waqf) and that which is similar to this. All of this is made clear in the following pages of this Waseeyah.

Secondly: I request that:

(.....) be in charge of my young children, and the overseeing of their wealth, and allowing it to grow until they reach the age of full maturity (i.e. the legal age of responsibility).

Thirdly: I request that:

(.....) be in charge of the remainder of the inheritance until it is distributed.

Fourthly: I request that:

(.....) be responsible for seeing to it that my daughters are married.

O my beloved...know that the most comprehensive matter is observing Taqwa of Allāh, the Most High. So, observe Taqwa of Allāh in secret and in public. Allāh is the One I leave behind to watch over you in every situation and circumstance; and the appointed meeting – by the permission of Allāh – is the Place of Permanence and Eternal Bliss, in the High Garden of Allāh.

May Allāh seal my life and yours with good. And may the Peace be upon you and the Mercy of Allāh and His Blessings. And may the Praise of Allāh (in the Highest Assemblies of the Angels), and Peace, Safety and Security be upon the Servant of Allāh and His Messenger, Muḥammad, and upon his family, followers and companions – all of them.

Advice

Know – O my Muslim brother – that the charity which is given during your life-time, as well as the endowment which is implemented or executed for the benefit of different types of charities, in general, are better than making a bequest for these purposes (to be executed) after one’s death. It also removes the likelihood of the inheritors disputing over its supervision after your death.

In the authentic Hadeeth which was reported by Abu Hurairah (RadiyAllāhu an-hu), he said: “A man came to the Prophet (SallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) and said: O Messenger of Allāh (SallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam), which charity is greatest in reward? The Prophet (SallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: “That you give charity while you are healthy (not about to die) and feeling stingy (not wanting to give), fearing poverty, hoping to become wealthy. Do not delay (i.e. giving the charity) until your soul is about to exit the throat (at the approach of death), then you say: ‘This (money or property) is for so-and-so’, - while (at this point) it already belongs to so-and-so.” [Reported by al-Bukhāree, Muslim, Abu Dāwood, an-Nasā’ee and Aḥmad]

ADVICE

Remember that there are many avenues of charity in your country which await the Charitable Endowment, in order to support the orphan, poor or needy person, or a caller (to Islām) inside or outside (the country); or to establish an Islāmic Center, build a Maṣjid; or to support the teaching and memorization of the Noble Qur'ān; or for spreading the call (to Islām) among the minorities; or to support the youth in getting married. So, do not restrict and confine your endowment to your wealthy male children, intending to deny the females (their share). Indeed, this is forbidden by divine Law.

Do not put in your Waseeyah that which will result in it being wasted, as is the situation with many of the endowments which we see now. So, store up for yourselves that which you would love to see in your record (of good deeds) in the Hereafter.

ADVICE

My Muslim brother, if you are able to meet Allāh without having any debt upon you, then do so. As it has been reported from Abdullāh ibn Qatādah, from his father (RadīyAllāhu an-hu), who said:

“A man came to the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) while he was standing upon the minbar (elevated place of standing from which the Khutbah is given). The man said: O Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) what if I went out with my sword in the Way of Allāh, being patient, hoping (for a reward from Allāh), moving forward without turning back (from the enemy), until I am killed – do you think Allāh will expiate from me my sins? He (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: Yes (Allāh will expiate your sins). Then, when the man turned away, the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) called him and said: This is (the angel) Jibreel, saying: [you will have your sins expiated] unless you have debt against you.” [Reported by Muslim, Tirmidhee, Aḥmad, Mālik, ad-Dārimī, An-Nasā’ee; and the actual wording is from an-Nasā’ee.]

ADVICE

I remind you, my Muslim brother, of the virtue of giving more time to someone who is in difficulty or forgoing the debt.

On the authority of Abu Hurairah (RadīyAllāhu an-hu), that the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: There was a man who had not done any good whatsoever. He used to lend people money and say to those he sent out (to collect the debts): collect whatever is easy (for them to pay) and leave whatever is difficult (for them to pay) and excuse them (from paying) – perhaps Allāh, the Most High, will excuse us (i.e. pardon our sins).

So, when that man died, Allāh, the Mighty, the Majestic, said to him: Have you done any good at all? The man said: No, except that I had a servant and I used to lend money to the people; so, whenever I sent him to collect (my money), I would say to him: "Take from them whatever is easy (for them to pay) and leave whatever is difficult (for them to pay) and excuse them (from paying) – perhaps Allāh, the Most High, will excuse us (i.e. pardon our sins). So, Allāh, the Most High said: Indeed, I have excused (i.e. pardoned) you. [Reported by al-Bukhāree and Muslim] at-Talqeen (Instructing) The Dying Person To Say: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'

By Imām al-Albānee (Rahimahullāh)⁷⁷

Chapter: Instructing The Dying Person (to recite) The Testimony Of Tawhēed (i.e. 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh')

The Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: 'Frequently recite the testimony of 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh' (i.e. nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh), before there comes between you and its recitation that which prevents you from saying it. And instruct your dying ones to say it.'⁷⁸ al-Imām al-Albānee (Rahimahullāh) said: This indicates that it is legislated in the Sharee'ah to instruct the Muhtadar (person on the brink of death) to recite the Testimony of Tawhēed (i.e. 'nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh'), hoping that they will say it, and as a result be successful (in dying upon Islām and being admitted into paradise).

What is intended by the words 'your dying ones' is: the one who is on the brink of death [but has not yet died], since he is still in the position of being held responsible (for actions), and hence it is possible that he will benefit from this instruction, and therefore be reminded of the Shahādah (Testimony of 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh') and recite it. And as a result, he will be from Ahlul-Jannah (the People of Paradise).

As for instructing him after death, in addition to this being an innovation, which has not been reported in the Sunnah, it has no benefit, since he has exited from the place of being held responsible (for actions), and gone on to the place of reward/recompense; and because he is not able to be reminded (in death).

Allāh says: "This is only a Reminder and a plain Qur'ān. That he or it (Muḥammad or the Qur'ān) may give warning to him who is living..' [Qur'ān, 36:69, 70]

The manner of instructing (the dying person) is that he be commanded to recite the Testimony of Tawhēed (i.e. 'nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh'). And as for what has been mentioned in some of the books

⁷⁷ Mawsoo'ah al-Albānee fee al-'Aqeedah, 9/15-21

⁷⁸ Silsilah al-Aḥādīth as-Sahēehah, 1/836, no. 467

that it (i.e. the Testimony of Tawḥeed) be mentioned in his presence, and that he not be commanded to recite it - this is in opposition to the Sunnab of the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam).⁷⁹

Chapter: Should Anything Be Added - In The Talqeen Of The Dying Person - Beyond The Testimony of 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'?

Question: The dying person is to be instructed to recite the Testimony of 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh' (i.e. 'nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh'). Should anything be added beyond (the words of Tawḥeed) to include: 'Muḥammad Rasoolullāh' [Muḥammad (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) is the Messenger of Allāh]? And has there come to us an authentic Hadeeth with this meaning?

Imām al-Albānee (Raḥimahullāh) said: No! [you must not add anything to this, and there is no authentic Hadeeth to support doing it]. That which has come to us (in the Sunnab) is that which you already know: 'Instruct your dying ones to recite: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh' (i.e. nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh),'⁸⁰ - meaning: In this situation, the instruction is (to recite) the foundation of al-Islām, which contains within it having faith in 'Muḥammad is the Messenger of Allāh', as well as in all of the pillars of faith...etc.

So, this is not the occasion - at this moment - for teaching. Rather, it is exclusively the occasion for instructing and reminding of the foundation of al-Islām, which is none other than at-Tawḥeed.

It is sufficient - and there is no need for what we might call philosophy⁸¹ and 'just a lot of talk' - that we say: This is how the Messenger (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said it: 'Instruct your dying ones to recite, 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh' (i.e. nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh)' [in this kind of situation].

While, in the likes of the Hadeeth: 'I have been commanded to fight until they bear witness 'that nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh', he (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said (additionally): 'and that Muḥammad is the Messenger of Allāh'.

⁷⁹ Silsilah al-Aḥadeeth as-Saḥeeḥah, 1/836.

⁸⁰ Saḥeeḥ Muslim, no. 916, 917.

⁸¹ i.e. people adding things from their intellect that has no basis in revelation, thinking that they are smart.

For this reason, we stop at what the Messenger (ﷺ) taught us, and do not make any increase whatsoever beyond the Testimony of 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'.⁸²

Chapter: The Importance Of Instructing The Dying Person To Recite The Shahādah, And The Innovation Of Reciting *Yā-Seen*⁸³ In Their Presence, And The Permissibility Of A Muslim Attending At The Time Of A Non-Muslim Dying For The Purpose Of Inviting Him To Islām.⁸⁴

al-Imām al-Albānee (Raḥimahullāh) said: When death come to the sick person, the following matters are obligatory upon those present with him:

One: To instruct him to recite the Shahādah (Testimony of 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'), based upon the sayings of the Prophet (ﷺ): 'Instruct your dying ones to recite: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh' (i.e. nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh)'; 'Whoever's final speech is 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh' - at the time of death - will enter the paradise at some point in time, even if what befalls him (of punishment) before that befalls him.'

And in another Hadeeth: 'Whoever dies without committing Shirk (association of partners) with Allāh will enter the paradise.' Reported by Muslim in his Ṣaḥeeh (authentic collection).

Two & Three: To supplicate for him (i.e. the dying person), and to not say anything in his presence except that which is good.

This is based upon the Hadeeth of Umm Salamah (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hā), in which she said: The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'If you are in the presence of a sick person or a dying person, then you must say that which is good, for indeed the angels say 'Ameen' to whatever you say (i.e. they ask Allāh to accept what you say).'⁸⁵

The Talqeen (instructing the dying person) is not (merely) mentioning the Shahādah (Testimony of 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'), in the presence of the dying person and causing him to hear it. Rather, it is commanding him to say it - unlike what some people think.

⁸³ The thirty-six (36) chapter of the Qur'ān.

⁸⁴ Abkām al-Janā'iz, pgs. 19 - 21.

⁸⁵ Reported by Muslim and al-Bayhaquee (3/384) and others besides them.

The evidence for this is the Hadeeth of Anas (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu): That the Messenger of Allāh (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) visited a man from the Anḡār and said to him: 'O Kbāl (maternal uncle)! Say: 'Lā iṭāba illAllāb (there is nothing worthy of worship except Allāh). The man said: Am I a Kbāl (maternal uncle) or 'Amm (paternal uncle)? So, the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) responded, saying: Rather, you are a Kbāl (maternal uncle). The man then said: So, it will be good for me that I say: 'Lā iṭāba illAllāb (there is nothing worthy of worship except Allāh)? Thereupon, the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) said: Yes!'

As for reciting Soorah *Yā-Seen*⁸⁶ in the presence of the dying person, and turning him in the direction of the Qiblah (i.e. towards Makkah), there is no authentic Hadeeth supporting this. Rather, Sa'eed ibn al-Musayyib (Raḥimahullāh) disliked being turned towards the Qiblah. He said: Isn't the dying person a Muslim?' [i.e. when he actually dies, as a Muslim he will be placed in his grave towards the Qiblah].

On the authority of Zur'ah ibn 'Abdur-Raḥmān that he was present with Sa'eed ibn al-Musayyib (Raḥimahullāh) during his sickness, while Abu Salamah ibn 'Abdur-Raḥmān was with him, and Sa'eed became unconscious. Abu Salamah ordered that the bed of Sa'eed be turned towards the Ka'bah, and then Sa'eed regained consciousness. He said: You (people) have turned my bed around!? They said: Yes. So, Sa'eed looked towards Abu Salamah and said: I believe it was done with your knowledge, [is that so]? Abu Salamah said: I have (in fact) ordered them to do so. So, Sa'eed (Raḥimahullāh) ordered that his bed be turned back as it was before.⁸⁷

And there is no harm in a Muslim attending at the time that a disbeliever is approaching death, for the purpose of inviting him to Islām, with hope that he will submit (to Allāh).

This is based upon the Hadeeth of Anas (RaḍiyAllāhu ‘an-hu), who said: There was a young Jewish boy who used to serve the Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) and who then became ill. The Prophet (ṢallAllāhu Alaihi wa Sallam) came to visit him in his sickness, sat at his head and said to him: 'Enter Islām'. The boy looked to his father who was there with him [i.e. asking his permission]? So, the father said to him: Obey Abu-l-Qāsim (i.e. the Prophet) (ﷺ). So, he entered Islām. The Prophet (ﷺ) went out, saying: 'Praise belongs to Allāh Who saved him (i.e. the boy) from the Hell-Fire'.

⁸⁶ The thirty-six (36) chapter of the Qur'ān.

When the boy died, the Prophet (ﷺ) said (to the Muslims): Perform prayer (i.e. the funeral prayer) over your companion [i.e. who became one of your companions by entering Islām].⁸⁸

Chapter: The Ruling Concerning Instructing The Deceased To Recite The Shahādah After His Death⁸⁹

[After some discussion, the Imām mentions the Hadeeth]: "Whoever dies while his final words were: Lā Ilāha IllAllāh (i.e. nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh)..., or as the Prophet (ﷺ) actually said it.

On this occasion [it is appropriate to mention] that there are some scholars who are saying - and according to me, this view of theirs resembles the 'philosophical speech' which has no basis in the Sharee'ah. Rather, it does not (even) have any rational basis.

They are saying: It is not proper for the one attending the person at the point of death to say to him, Say: Lā Ilāha IllAllāh. Rather, he must merely mention Allāh and (himself) say: Lā Ilāha IllAllāh... Lā Ilāha IllAllāh, reciting this audibly (for the dying person to hear it), with hope that the dying person will become attentive - after being unmindful - at this dangerous moment [of the approach of death], and then he (the dying person) might say: Lā Ilāha IllAllāh.

Why is it that some (of the scholars) say this, i.e. that it is not proper to command the dying person to say, Lā Ilāha IllAllāh? It is out of fear that he might refuse this command, resulting in the end of his affair being that he ⁸⁸ Reported by al-Bukhāree, al-Hākīm, al-Bayhaqee and Aḥmad (3/175, 227, 260, 280) and the additional words are in a narration of Aḥmad.

⁸⁹ Rihlatun-Noor, recording 8A, 00:44:03 dies upon disbelief, and we seek refuge in Allāh (from that). This is what they claim.

However, I say: There has come to us in the authentic Sunnah that which makes clear (for us) that the saying of the Prophet (ﷺ): 'Instruct your dying ones to recite: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'' (i.e. nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh), - means nothing more than, command the one who is at the approach of death to say, 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'.

This is reported in Saḥeeḥ al-Bukhāree, at the time when a young Jewish boy who used to serve the Prophet (ﷺ) became ill. The Prophet (ﷺ) visited him and found that he was at the brink of death. So, the Prophet (ﷺ) said to him: Say: Lā Ilāha IllAllāh (i.e. nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh). This (then) is the Talqeen (i.e. the correct way to instruct the person who is at the approach of death).

From this, it is befitting that we take a benefit, which is: That the sayings of the Prophet (ﷺ) must be explained by his actions (ﷺ). Hence, as-Sunnah al-Qawleeyah (i.e. Sunnah derived from his speech) is made clear by as-Sunnah al-Fi'leeyah (i.e. Sunnah derived from his actions).

For this reason, the saying of Prophet (ﷺ): 'Instruct your dying ones to recite: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'' (i.e. nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh), - it has been said, as you have just heard, that one should merely recite in the presence of the dying person, 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh', and not address him, by saying: Say: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'.

However, as-Sunnah al-Fi'leeyah (i.e. Sunnah derived from the actions of the Prophet) has come clarifying the intended meaning of: 'Instruct your dying ones to recite: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'' - and it is that the dying person be commanded to say, 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'.

This is what the Messenger (ﷺ) did at the time when he visited the young Jewish boy who used to serve the Prophet (ﷺ). And he was a Jew, son of a Jew. Yet, the Messenger (ﷺ) is the most noble of the people in character. And even though the young boy was Jewish, he still visited him.

However, the Prophet (ﷺ) availed himself of this opportunity to convey to the people the knowledge and the Deen (of Islam). So, he took advantage of the occasion and said to the boy: O young man! Say: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'. While, at the head of the boy was his Jewish father. So, the boy looked to his father, as though to say to him: What do you think (I should do)?...

Here you hear Muḥammad (ﷺ) saying to me, Say: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'. So, this filthy (father) - and this is how it is with the disbelievers, as Allāh, the Most High said: "Those to whom We gave the Scripture (Jews and Christians) recognize him (Muḥammad) as they recognize their sons..."⁹⁰ And he (the father) knows that the invitation of the Messenger (ﷺ) is Truth. However, as Allāh, the Most High, also said, in the other verse: 'And they belied them (i.e. those verses) wrongfully and arrogantly, though their own selves were convinced thereof [i.e. that those verses are from Allāh]...[Qur'ān, 27:14].

When this Jewish man saw that his son is on the road to death, and that there will be no life for him after that, he said to him: Obey Abu-l-Qāsim, Obey Abu-l-Qāsim (i.e. the Prophet). He was saying to his Jewish son: Say: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh' (i.e. nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh). At the same time, this Jewish father is disbelieving in 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'. However, since he knows that his son is on the road to death, and there is no (future) life for him if he dies as a Jew, he said to him: Obey Abu-l-Qāsim (i.e. the Prophet). As for himself (i.e. the father), he remained upon disobedience to Abu-l-Qāsim - due to (his) stubbornness, disbelief and misguidance.

The point here is that the young man said: 'Ash-hadu an Lā Ilāha IllAllāh' : I bear witness that nothing has the right to be worshiped except Allāh, and then his soul exited (from his body). The Prophet (ﷺ) said: All of the praise belongs to Allāh, Who has saved him - through me - from the Hell-Fire.

⁹⁰ Qur'ān, 2:146.

So, this is at-Talqeen al-Mashroo' (the legislated manner of instructing the person at the point of death), i.e. that it be said to the dying person: Say: 'Lā Ilāha IllAllāh'.

As for instructing him while he is in his grave, this will not benefit him at all - whether at the time of burying him or after the burial is complete - since he is dead, has no movement and does not hear what he is being instructed to say. And even if he heard (what is being said), he will not (be able to) respond - since he has exited (this world) with whatever he has earned in this world of Emān (faith) and righteous deeds or Kufr (disbelief) and evil deeds.

I ask Allāh, the Blessed and Most High, to grant us success in understanding Islām with a correct understanding, and that He grant us righteous deeds. Indeed, He is the One Who Hears and Responds. And all of the praise belongs to Allāh, the Rabb (Creator, Owner and Controller) of all of the worlds.
